SUPERIOR COURT

Verdict of $3,500 Was Rendered in Proulx-Bishop Case

The civil session of the superior court reopened yesterday after a suspension since Friday and the jury in the case of Mrs. Lida Proulx vs. J. W. Bishop Co., returned a verdict of $3,500 for plaintiff who sued to recover as the result of a fatal accident that befel her husband, Celeste Proulx while the latter was in the employ of the defendant company on the premises of the Bigelow Carpet company.

Hamilton Cases Settled

Seven cases on the list against the Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. have been settled without trial. The Messrs. Hogan and Messrs. Qua appeared for the different plaintiffs and Frank B. Dunbar for the defendants. These cases grew out of the explosion in the Hamilton mills in which several men were injured.

Sues Insurance Co.

The case of John J. Everson of Newton vs. General Accident Fire and Insurance company of Perth, Scotland, with an agency in Philadelphia and an office in Boston who sues to recover for the loss of a hand on an accident policy took up the entire session yesterday.

The plaintiff is a manufacturer of industrial earth or "tripolite" and his works are about eight miles from St. John, N. B. The plaintiff was insured against ordinary accidents in the sum of $5000; but a clause in the policy, under which the action is brought, calls for double benefits in certain cases, one of these provisions being an injury sustained by "the burning of a building in which the insured shall be at the commencement of a fire." The policy also provides for such accidents as the loss of an arm, the damage to be $10,000, and for the loss of a hand "at or above the wrist," one-half the principal sum. The plaintiff claims damages under these provisions in the sum of $10,000, and for $50 additional for the cost of amputation, also provided for in the policy.

The accident by which the plaintiff received an injury to his right hand, necessitating amputation three inches above the wrist, occurred while he was alone in his camp, at the tripolite works near St. John, N. B., on the 18th of October, 1907. The building was an ordinary "camp" of boards, two and one-half stories high. Over the stove was a "flume" or drying chamber, constructed of boards, and having shelves in it, on which bricks and moulds of the "tripolite" were dried.

Mr. Everson claims that his experiments, that had been carried on for a few days, had ceased, and there was no material in the drying flume on the morning of October 18, when he built a fire in the stove about 5 o'clock, and, sitting down to get warm, fell asleep in his chair. When he awoke, he says, there was smoke issuing from the drying chamber, and he lifted the door with his left hand, and with his right threw a dipper of water into the flume. The door, which weighed about 60 pounds, fell and pinned his hand over the flames, and his hand was severely burned before he could extricate it. The building was totally destroyed.

After the plaintiff had had his hand amputated the defendant company was notified but refused to pay the amount of the policy and hence the suit.

In its answer to the plaintiff's declaration the defendant makes several allegations of fraudulent representation, but the principal defense that has thus far arisen in the course of the trial is a denial that "Franklin J. Moore, Jr., Manager," who issued the policy, is the company's authorized agent in America.

On the above contention, a question of law arose, the defence demanding that the plaintiff prove the agency by other means than the interrogatories introduced, and to which the defence objected.

Considerable time was taken arguing the points of law involved and finally the case was suspended until the company's lawyers in Philadelphia could be communicated with to see if he would waive the interrogatories and admit that Mr. Moore is the United States manager for the company, otherwise it will be necessary to send to the company's office in Scotland. The plaintiff has three other cases pending against other insurance companies growing out of the same accident, Russell and Russell for the plaintiff and J. P. Bessley for the defence.

Moore vs. Stiles

At this morning's session, of the superior court the case of Thomas F. Moore of Littleton against George F. Stiles of Lowell was called. This is an action of conversion. The plaintiff claims that Deputy Sheriff Stiles, at the house of his property of Wheeler, Milliken & Co. of Boston, when the property belonged to the plaintiff.

Lawyers D. J. Donahue and Albert S. Howard appeared for the plaintiff and Oscar E. Peas for the defence.

BRYAN LEADS

COUNT IN MISSOURI NOT YET COMPLETE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 5.—Returns compiled early this morning from every county in the state give Bryan a lead over Taft in Missouri of 470 votes. From 18 of the 114 counties, however, complete returns have not been received and for these counties the statisticians made careful estimates. Complete returns from the missing precincts may change the result one way or another and it is probable that the official count alone can determine whether Missouri has given its 18 electoral votes to Bryan or Taft.

The same tables which give Bryan a lead of 67 votes give Handley, for governor, a lead of 13,148, making his election over W. S. Cowherd an absolute certainty. This is the first time in nearly 35 years that Missouri has elected a republican governor.

DEMOCRATS ELECT GOVERNOR

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Complete returns from the Indiana legislature show that the democrats will have a majority of eight on the joint ballot. This will ensure the election of a United States senator to succeed James H. Bryan. Taft carries the state by about 10,000 and Thomas R. Marshall, democratic candidate for governor, is elected by about 15,000.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 5.—The Register has received returns from all counties of the state and gives detailed tabulations today showing the completeness of the republican victory in West Virginia. The pluralities shown are as follows:
Taft, 20,355; Hancock, republican, for governor, 7633.

The election of all five republican candidates for congress is claimed.

UNOFFICIAL RETURNS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Unofficial returns to the Post-Dispatch from 114 of the 115 counties in Missouri, 85 of the counties being complete give: Bryan, 238,635; Taft, 250,177. Taft's plurality, 11,542. For governor Handley, republican, 13,148; Cowherd, democrat, 28,600. Handley's plurality 15,452. Only the official count can decide the political complexion of the state's electoral vote.

CLAIMS CAMERON'S ELECTION

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 5.—Secretary Young of the republican state central committee stands by his statement that Cameron, republican, for delegate to congress, has defeated Smith, democrat, by 559 votes. Cameron's seeming plurality, based on party lines, is in excess of 1000.

THE DEMOCRATS

HAVE ELECTED THEIR TICKET IN COLORADO

DENVER, Nov. 5.—Returns from 132 of the 148 precincts in Denver give Bryan a plurality of 2,648; Shafroth, democrat, for governor, 5506. Outside counties are still undecided, but this is sufficient to base the statement that both democratic national and state tickets have been victorious and also that the next legislature will be democratic by a majority of 15. This ensures the election of C. J. Hughes of Denver as successor to United States Senator Henry Teller, which selection will be made by the next general assembly. It is also sure that all three democratic members of congress have been elected.

OFFICIAL COUNT NOT COMPLETE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—The official canvass of Maryland's vote will be begun in each county of the state and in Baltimore city today. While the result may be known in many of the counties by tonight in others and in Baltimore city it may require several days to complete the count. Nothing of a definite character has been received early this morning to change the late report last night giving Taft the state, on the face of the unofficial returns, by 126 votes.

FUNERAL NOTICES

O'HARA—The funeral of the late Mabel Campbell O'Hara will take place at 12 o'clock tomorrow morning from 33 Keen street. Mass of requiem at St. Peter's church at 2:45 o'clock.

CITY HALL NOTES

The board of health met for a few minutes yesterday afternoon and granted G. H. Barton of Chelmsford a swill license to collect from 117 Merrimack street.

John J. Kelley petitioned the board for a permit to build a stable at the corner of Chelmsford and Midland streets. Willis E. Morse appeared as a remonstrant. He said that the barn would be too near his houses and that his tenants had signified their intention to leave their present tenements if the stable was built.

A CORRECTION

In the report of the funeral of the late Paul A. Sullivan, the talented young musician, which was published in yesterday's Sun, mention of the following floral tributes was inadvertently omitted: Mammoth violin of pinks and roses, inscribed "The Lost Chord," Messrs. John Dwyer, Ed. J. Donnelly, Wm. Gargan, John Gleason and John J. Dwyer. Wreath, inscribed "Cousin Paul," Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kelly and family; mammoth lyre, inscribed "The Lost Chord," Lowell Cadet band.

OLD TIMERS' DAY

Several "Rounders" Before Judge Hadley Today

One Drunk Arrived From Scotland Only Yesterday — Agent Richardson Calls a Woman the Biggest Liar He Ever Met

"The best laid plans of mice and men oft gang a-gley," sorrowfully thought Jimmy Watson as he sat in his cell in police station this morning waiting patiently to ascertain where he was at and forth for a few minutes, the court remarked: "It is so hard to make these young people appreciate their relationship and responsibility in such cases." The court then placed Bordelau on probation on his promise to pay his wife $3 per week.

"The Biggest Liar" — "She's one of the biggest liars that ever came down the pike," said Agent Richardson of the Humane society to Judge Hadley, relative to Mrs. Mary A. McDonald, who had her husband arrested for non-support. Everyone was surprised for Mrs. McDonald, a neat and comely looking woman, had told a straightforward story regarding her experiences with her husband. Mrs. McDonald stated that she had received but $4 from her husband since Jan. 1st and that he was a gentleman who didn't believe in working. She said she didn't care for any support for herself but wanted him to support the child who is three years of age.

"Whenever he got any money he would spend it to go to a ball game," said Mrs. McDonald. "And she'd spend it to go to the Lakeview theatre," retorted Mr. Richardson. "Sympathy was all with the woman until Agent Richardson took the stand and told his respects to the couple. Said every Richardson: 'They have worked every charitable institution and every church and every minister in Lowell. They are professionals.'"

The court then ordered the complaint changed to that of non-support of the child, and McDonald pleaded guilty. The title one is now at the city farm. McDonald was sentenced to three months in jail and placed on probation for six months, during which time he must support the child.

Back to the Farm — Thomas McLaughlin, a parole man from the state farm, will be back in time to harvest the winter cabbages.

Cebula Pinched $10 — Peter Cebula, who had been arrested only 15 minutes before, was asked by an interpreter to plead guilty or not guilty of larceny, and he replied: "I did not steal it, I took it." That was good enough for the prosecution, but not for the court, who said: "He took it without intent to commit larceny, perhaps. Enter a plea of not guilty." It was claimed that Cebula stole $10 from the pants pocket of a fellow boarder this morning and when the prosecution put on as the first witness a woman, who said she saw the defendant place his hand in the other man's pants pocket and then followed him and had him arrested. The court asked where the man was who owned the money.

"He is still looking for this fellow," said the deputy. "He went out one way and this woman went another and found him and had him arrested." But the court insisted that the man who owned the money should be there first, to show that the money had been taken, whereupon the deputy remarked that the money had been recovered in the pocket of the defendant and that he had admitted to the police that he stole it. But the court declined to take the confession until the corpus delicti or main body of the complaint had been shown and the case was continued until tomorrow, to enable the police to produce the man who lost the money. The man who owned the money enjoys a name like a college yell, to wit: Wozzelek Yerak.

Family Troubles — Wolbrd Bordelau, when asked to plead to a charge of non-support, replied: "I'm guilty in one way." The court interpreted that as a plea of not guilty. Mrs. Bordelau, a very pretty little woman, decidedly youthful in appearance, took the stand and told her story. She married Bordelau nearly two years ago, when he was on a two months' furlough from the marine corps, and she stated that her husband had given her only $2 since July 1. After a long tale of their troubles, she said: "I'm afraid of him because he is so strong."

"I guess there's no danger," remarked the judge. "He said that if he ever saw me with another fellow he would lick us both and that if he saw me with another fellow in a dance hall he would lick us both." "But you don't go to dances with other men, do you?" asked the court. "Yes, she does," promptly answered the defendant for her. "I go to dances, but not with other men," replied the witness demurely, "and he goes to them, too," she added. "Well, I think you had better keep away from them," said the court.

After the pair had talked back and forth for a few minutes, the court remarked: "It is so hard to make these young people appreciate their relationship and responsibility in such cases." The court then placed Bordelau on probation on his promise to pay his wife $3 per week.

BIG RAIL ORDER

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—That the United States Steel Corporation and all other makers of rails in the United States have agreed to cut the standard price of steel rails, and that the railroad systems of the country have agreed to order largely at the reduced price, is the story that came from steel and railroad circles here last evening. It is further rumored that the price of rails, which for quite a number of years has been $28 per ton, will be shaded to $24, and at this figure the various railroads have agreed to equip their lines most completely, something that has not been done for three years.

meeting held in New York last week. The final announcement will be made shortly. The Pennsylvania railroad has begun preparations for placing its big order for rails.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—The American Nat and Bolt fastener company yesterday afternoon announced that as a result of the election the wages of the firm's workmen would today be raised 20 per cent., and in addition, there would be as much extra time as the workmen cared to make. This concern employs several hundred men. President Milton Bartley said last night:

"For some time past presidents of different railroads have been assured of the election of Taft, and so placed orders with us to be hurried through as soon as the election should be safely over. We are now starting on this work and find it necessary to call back all the old men we had working before, and at the same time offer to them the wages which we paid them in times gone by."

LAWRENCE POLICE

Are Still Looking For Woman's Assailant

LAWRENCE, Nov. 5.—Edward Lanzere is still held as a suspect in the case of Mrs. Margaret Smith, who was brutally assaulted in a passageway adjoining the house where she and her husband boarded. No charge has been preferred against him. City Marshal Sheehan said late yesterday afternoon, "Neither are the police ready to release him."

The husband's story was that in approaching the door of the boarding house Mrs. Smith stumbled and fell, and as she stooped to assist her three men came up, one forcing him into a passageway on one side of the house and leaving the other two with Mrs. Smith. The police say they believe there was a quarrel between Smith and some unknown man in the shadow of the house. This seems to have been determined by the information of Charles Houle, whose attention was attracted by Smith's shouts to John Beaver, a tenant close by, and also by another neighbor. Houle has said that he shouted out the window to the assailant and told him if he did not let the "old man" alone he would come out and "kick his head off." When Houle reached the outside he saw a man, hurrying down Broadway in the direction of the Arlington mills, while Smith had disappeared.

The authorities reason that white Smith and the man were quarreling in the passageway some other person, who was familiar with the locality, saw Mrs. Smith lying on the ground and that he was the one who assaulted her. Medical Examiner Dow was in consultation with the police at headquarters yesterday and Patrolman Gordon of the Methuen force was also there. Two women were in the building for a short time and Lanzere was brought before one of them, evidently for the purpose of identification. Just how this woman figured in the case the police did not say.

Lanzere, the police say, has been around Methuen for a dozen years or so. He is 30 years old. He is a carpenter.

THE DEMOCRATS

Made Some Big Gains in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—A radical change in Indiana's representation in the house of representatives was the most striking feature of Tuesday's election, the latest unofficial returns, complete, giving the democratic party eleven members and the republicans two. This is a gain of seven members for the democrats.

Wm. H. Taft carried the state for president, according to incomplete returns, by about 8000. Thomas R. Marshall and the entire democratic state ticket are probably elected by a plurality of about 15,000.

The state legislature is probably democratic, which means that a democratic successor to Senator Hemenway probably will be chosen. The name of John W. Kern is mentioned.

PRES. GOMPERS

TO BE RE-ELECTED, SAY BOSTON MEN

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The delegates from this vicinity who will represent central labor unions and international organizations at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convention in Denver, Colo., left Boston yesterday. The session will open Monday morning and continue for about two weeks.

It was the general impression among the delegates that Samuel Gompers, who for more than a score of years has been the official head of the American Federation of Labor, will be again re-elected, though there is a strong probability that opposition to his reelection will be evidenced.

The delegates refrained from speaking on the political situation of the federation as relates to the election of Tuesday.

LOGICAL ECZEMA CURE

ENDORSED BY PHYSICIANS

After treating eczema for years as a practically incurable blood disease, the medical world is greatly interested in the discovery that it is not a blood disease at all, but is due to a parasite in the skin itself. This parasite is easily destroyed by the external application of a compound of oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., which will quickly kill the eczema germs, while soothing and refreshing the skin.

"There was a man here suffering from eczema for the last fourteen years, and I applied the B. D. D. treatment. I also applied it to a man of West Dublin, Minn., who has been suffering from rheumatism for fourteen years and eczema in his feet, and the second treatment in both cases cleared the skin almost absolutely. I hope that everyone in the world will be able to learn of your grand remedy. The first application is only a balm, and its soothing effect is beyond expression. I shall never be without it, and shall use it among my patients altogether."

Get Big Contract in Suffolk County

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The contract for enlarging the Suffolk county court house by the addition of two stories has been awarded to the second lowest bidder, Connors Brothers Co., of Lowell and Boston. The contract price for the work is $92,315.

James R. Dunbar, Joseph J. Corbett and Wm. H. Wellington, the commissioners having charge of the award, do not make known their reasons for selecting the next lowest bidder, but they have indicated the award only after thorough consideration since Oct. 17, when the bids were received in Judge Dunbar's office and opened in the presence of a large gathering of Massachusetts and New York contractors. The lowest price for doing the work was that named by F. T. Nesbit & Co., a Buffalo concern, $72,000 or $20,315 less than the Connors Co. Other bidders and their offers were: Norcross Brothers Co., $158,000; L. P. Soule & Son Co., $56,911; John Gill & Son, $79,193; William Crane, $77,402; Woodbury & Leighton Co., $77,402; George A. Fuller & Co., $82,599; McNeil Brothers, $25,000.

Some preliminary details regarding the work are to be settled at a conference between representatives of the contracting firm and the architect, George A. Clough, which was held late yesterday afternoon. The contract calls for the completion of the work within 30 months, but it is expected it will be finished considerably sooner. Certain parts of the work will be done at night with the aid of electric lights and every effort will be made to make the changes in the present building and to erect the additional stories without interfering any more than possible with the business of the courts and their officers.

The sympathy of the court was extended to Bro. Malochy Burns, who lies dangerously ill at his home, and Bros. Connolly and G. McGilly were appointed a committee to wait on the family and express the sympathy of the body. Three new members were initiated. The auditor's report shows the court in excellent condition.

TARIFF REVISION BRYAN IS PLEASED SENATOR FORAKER WAS FINED $200

To be Taken up By the New Administration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Now that Mr. Taft has been elected the two things that most interest Washington are his cabinet and the revision of the tariff, to which Mr. Taft stands pledged. So far as the cabinet is concerned there will be many changes. Mr. Root can remain at the head of the state department if he cares to, although it is generally believed here that he will leave the state department to go into the senate as the successor of Mr. Platt next January.

In that case it is the general expectation that he will be succeeded by Mr. Meyer, who has not yet taken an active part in the campaign, but whom Mr. Taft personally likes and greatly admires. Mr. Meyer's linguistic abilities and his diplomatic knowledge admirably fit him for the state department and his appointment would be pleasing to the various foreign governments represented here through their ambassadors and ministers, with all of whom Mr. Meyer is on friendly terms.

In the event that Mr. Root should not leave the state department Mr. Meyer will become secretary of the treasury, as Mr. Cortelyou will retire after March 4. Mr. Meyer's place will in all probability be filled by Mr. Hitchcock, the chairman of the national republican committee, whose masterly management of the campaign so signally justified the wisdom of his appointment. Mr. Hitchcock had to submit to a good deal of adverse criticism in the early days of the battle, but the result shows that he made no mistakes and knew perfectly what he was doing.

Knows About the Postoffices
Mr. Hitchcock's appointment as postmaster general would be a natural one, as he was first assistant postmaster general at the time when he left the government service to take charge of Mr. Taft's campaign, and has a thorough knowledge of that department.

Secretary of War Wright, who succeeded Mr. Taft after the latter's nomination, will, it is expected, remain through the next administration; but Mr. Metcalf, the head of the military branch of the service, will retire with the present administration. So will Mr. Gen. Bonaparte, and his successor is likely to be either P. E. Kellogg of Minnesota, now the governor of that state, or Wade Ellis of Ohio, who took such an active part in framing the republican platform.

Secretary of the Interior Garfield, an Ohio man, will remain in the interior department, which may bring two men from Ohio in the cabinet; but the old-time prohibition against a state having more than one member of the cabinet no longer holds good, and the rest of the country would not feel slighted if the president picked two men from his own state.

In the present cabinet New York contributed three members—Root, Cortelyou and Straus. Sec. Wilson has an ambition to add to his phenomenal record as a member of the cabinet by remaining during the next administration, but it is not certain that his ambition will be gratified. Sec. Straus may remain at the head of the department of commerce and labor, but that also is not certain at this time. With Mr. Meyer and Mr. Hitchcock in the cabinet both Massachusetts men, another New England cabinet appointment would be precluded.

The Tariff

That the tariff will be revised, but not violently reformed, is the general opinion. With such devoted standstillers controlling the destinies of the house as Speaker Cannon, Representative Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mr. Dalzell, his chief lieutenant, the tariff need have no fears that it will not be in the hands of its friends, so far as the house of representatives is concerned.

Mr. Cannon will undoubtedly be re-elected speaker. Had the republican majority in the house been close, a successful revolt against him could have been led, but the old guard is in control, and the old guard wants its snug committee chairmanships, which it would not be sure of getting if a new and younger man came to the front.

With Mr. Cannon back in the chair there would be little change in committee assignments, and it will fall to Mr. Payne to bring in the new tariff bill. In the early days of the battle, of course, remain at the head of the finance committee, and will put the finishing touches on the bill after it leaves the house.

There will not be, it is safe to say, any violent reduction of duties, but it is practically certain that the new tariff will conform to the European method and have minimum and maximum schedules, the minimum rates to be given to all countries that give to this country their lowest rates and the maximum to be enforced when reprisals are necessary. Senator Aldrich thoroughly believes in the system and so do a great many other prominent republicans in both houses of congress.

The minimum is not expected to be much lower than the present rates of duty; that is taking them all the way through, although there will be readjustments and modifications that will bring about considerable changes. The maximum will be a good deal higher, so that it will be a useful club when tariff wars threaten.

The expectation in Washington is that congress ought to meet in extra session almost immediately after the close of the regular session and that congress will have nothing else to do except to pass on the new tariff bill, it ought to be able to finish its work in three months.

to his knowledge, and that if he ever was married to her, it was when he was under the influence of liquor. Reports have reached the officers that Dunham was fast winning the affections of the Chamberlain woman, and that she was casting Davis aside for him. That there also was bad blood between Dunham and Davis for other reasons, the officers claim to have evidence. It is alleged that Davis once accused Dunham of stealing his liquor that was hidden in the woods.

CAPTAIN WAS LOST
NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 5.—The schooner Lorne, owned by Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador missionary, arrived at No. Sydney yesterday morning, her captain, who was washed overboard Sunday afternoon during a gale of snow flurries. LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—While not caring to discuss at this time the political effect of the democratic victory in his home state or analyze the cause, Wm. J. Bryan in an informal talk to a number of friends who called on him yesterday expressed his pleasure at the result in Nebraska and the satisfaction afforded him to learn of the election of so many of his political and personal friends.

A delegation numbering nearly a hundred from Lincoln visited Mr. Bryan at Fairview to express to him their confidence and devotion to him and to him that such was the sentiment of the majority of the people of his city and state. Mr. Bryan in responding said: "I am highly gratified over the results in this state. The national defeat has not been such a disappointment when we have had so many things to console us. I hope I have convinced my friends that running for office has only been an incident in my work. My heart has never been set on holding office, but I wanted to do our country's work and it looked as though the presidency might offer the opportunity to do that work. I am sure that in private life I can have the chance to do something. One is not required to hold office in order to do big things; one is simply required to do those things within his reach, and that much is within the reach of each of us."

"Personally, I shall find as much joy being out of office, if the returns show I must be, as I would be in office. I hope still to be of influence to bring about needed reforms. I appreciate very much the confidence and loyalty of the people near us. It has been the greatest comfort that the election has given us. The fact that those among whom we live have shown this confidence we appreciate more than I can tell you. It has been very kind in you to come out here and visit us on this day."

"The defeat he sustained Tuesday did not weigh heavily on Mr. Bryan. He was one of the most cheerful of those at his home and laughed and joked good naturedly with his visitors. Last night Mr. Bryan was the guest of honor at the banquet of the State Teachers' association where he made a short address. He has no other immediate plans than to rest at home following his canvass.

are becoming with time not less, but more, productive. We probably still possess sufficient forest land to grow wood enough at home to supply our own needs. If we are not blind, or selfishly wasteful, we may yet preserve our forest independence and, with it, the fourth of our great industries.

Waste in lumber production are enormous. Take the case of yellow pine, which now heads the list in the volume of annual cut. In 1907 it is estimated that only one-half of all the yellow pine cut during the season was used, and that the other half, amounting to 8,000,000 cords, was wasted. Such waste is typical. Mr. R. Long, in his address on "Forest Conservation" at the conference of governors last spring, pointed out that 20 per cent of the yellow pine was simply left in the woods—a waste which represents the timber growing on 300,000 acres.

The rest of the waste takes place at the mill. Of course, it would never do to chuck the material rejected at the mill as waste unless it can be better and more thorough form of utilization. But in many cases we know, and in many other cases we have excellent reason to believe, that most, if not all, of this material could be used with profit. It is simply a question of intelligent investigation and, more than all, of having the will to economize.

"But there are other ways to conserve the forests besides cutting in half the present waste of forest products. The forests can be made to produce three or four times as rapidly as they do at present. This is true of both the virgin forests and the cut-over lands. Virgin forests are often fully stocked with first-class timber, but this stock has been laid in very slowly, on account of the wasteful competition which is carried on constantly between the rival trees. Then, too, in the virgin forests there are very many trees which have reached maturity and stopped growing, and these occupy space which, if held by younger trees, would be having in a new stock constantly. As regards the cut-over land, severe cutting, followed by fire, has checked growth so seriously that in most cases reproduction is both poor and slow, while in many other cases there is no true forest reproduction at all at present, and there is but little hope for the future."

SOME MILL NEWS
BUSINESS IS BRIGHTENING UP IN SPOTS
The new mill of Mayo & Son, Inc., Foxcroft, Me., is nearing completion. The plant as a whole is undergoing improvements and new machinery has been received and set up. A new day house is planned to further increase the efficiency of the mill.

Weldmann Silk Dyeing Co., Paterson, N. J., is erecting an immense dyeing plant at East Fifth and Riverside. Through but one story high, it will cover an area 400 by 150 feet, not including the machine shop and boiler house also to be erected in connection with the establishment. The cost is estimated at $100,000.

A new weaving mill, 135 by 60 feet, two stories, is to be built by S. Slater & Sons, Webster, Mass.

Slater Mfg. Co., Pawtucket, R. I., has been incorporated with a capital of $100,000 to take over the real estate and personal property of the Slater Cotton Co., and operate the plant for the manufacture of cotton, woolen, worsted and silk fabrics and yarns. The incorporators are Frank A. Sayles, Stephen A. Jenks, Edward S. Bowen, George E. Martin, James R. McCall and Wm. H. Harris.

It is reported that the Lawton Mills Corporation, Plainfield, Conn., has purchased a large farm in the vicinity of the mill and will have erected thereon several tenement houses for the accommodation of employees.

TIMBER SUPPLY
Of the United States, Its Amount and Quality
"We are now cutting timber from the forests of the United States at the rate of 500 feet board measure a year for every man, woman, and child. In Europe they use only 60 board feet."

Few statements could be made which would better convince the average man that this country leads the world in the demand for timber. It is made by Treadwell Cleveland, Jr., in a circular which treats of the conservation of the forests, soil, water and all the other great natural resources, which has just been published by the United States Forest Service. In speaking further of the consumption of timber in this country, Mr. Cleveland says:

"At this rate, in less than thirty years all our remaining virgin timber will be cut. Meantime, the forests which have been cut over are generally in a bad way for want of care; they will produce only inferior second growth. We are clearly over the verge of a timber famine. The forests are not due to necessity, for the forests are one of the renewable resources. Rightly used, they go on producing crop after crop indefinitely. The countries of Europe know this, and Japan knows it; and their forests are becoming with time not less, but more, productive. We probably still possess sufficient forest land to grow wood enough at home to supply our own needs. If we are not blind, or selfishly wasteful, we may yet preserve our forest independence and, with it, the fourth of our great industries.

MELROSE MAN
WAS KILLED BY HIS OWN GUN YESTERDAY
MELROSE, Nov. 5.—Edward Hyatt, aged 35, of Echo street, Malden, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun he was carrying yesterday.

Hyatt, with his brother Walter and John Babcock, started out early yesterday on a bird hunting expedition, each armed with a shotgun. After hunting in the woods at Mt. Hood, near the Saugus line, they started home. They had reached a point near Waverley avenue when Edward Hyatt failed to light his pipe, resting the muzzle of the gun against his body. His two companions walked ahead a few yards when they heard a report and saw Edward Hyatt drop to the ground.

Medical Examiner Perley said Hyatt died by accident, a spark from the pipe or match dropping into the barrel of the gun and exploding the charge.

CHINESE ENVOY COMING
TOKIO, Nov. 5.—Tang Shao Yi, special Chinese envoy to the United States from China, sailed for San Francisco on the steamer Mongolia today, accompanied by a large suite. In a public speech here he said that the world had been mistaken in thinking that China was even slightly unfriendly to the United States.

EASY TO CURE RHEUMATISM
But you must have a little persistency in your make-up to do it. There are hundreds of so called rheumatism cures, but not one that we know of has stood the test of time like NEURALGIC ANODYNE.

If you have rheumatism, neuralgia, pains or aches of any kind, internally or externally, get a bottle of NEURALGIC ANODYNE to-day, and follow the directions for use.

NEURALGIC ANODYNE is a household necessity. It kills pain almost instantly, and it used promptly when pains occur, will prevent pneumonia. For sore muscles or lame back, due to over-exertion, there is nothing half so good. Sold everywhere. Made by The Twitchell-Champlin Co., Portland, Me.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—For a presidential election that was such a sweep, there are numerous republican toga wearers and members of the lower, or popular, branch of congress who have been left outside of the breast-works. The belated returns may show a brother saved here and there, but at best the fighting ground is strewn with the maimed and wounded. Irreverent Washington prefers to know them as "lame ducks," many of whom will come hobnobbing along for federal appointments at $5000 or more per year, when the hurrying at the next inauguration is over.

It looks now as though several distinguished republican senators were headed for private life, unless the new president chooses to "take care" of them. First and foremost among them will undoubtedly be Senator Joseph Benjamin Foraker of Ohio. Of course, his re-election has been regarded as impossible, ever since the Standard Oil letters were given to the public. Whether the Ohio legislature be republican or democratic on joint ballot, a new Buckeye senator is assured. If the democrats have that legislature they will elect ex-Gov. "Jim" Campbell, who once defeated Mr. Foraker for governor, of Ohio, and who has been dividing his time between New York and Ohio ever since he left the governor's chair.

It is a long time since there has been a democratic senator from the Middle West. Ohio had the late "Cal" Brice and Indiana had Turpie and Voorhees, but they were displaced 10 years ago and more, as that big belt of states began giving republicans.

Foraker's Successor
If the Ohio legislature be republican there will be a half dozen aspirants for Senator Foraker's toga. Representative Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland entered the senatorial race weeks ago. He wanted to come to the senate to succeed the late Mark Hanna.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

and Senator Foraker tried to help him to an election. There have been rumors that Charles P. Taft, the half-brother of the president-elect, would like to enter the senate and he might become a formidable candidate. Ex-Speaker, Ex-Major-General and Representative J. Warren Keifer of Ohio also wants to come to the senate, but he is probably too old to win the race. Should there be republicans enough in the legislature to elect a senator of that political faith?

Probably Senator Foraker will not want any office. He has a large and lucrative law practice in Cincinnati, but there is some conjecture as to whether Mr. Taft, when he becomes president, might not generously offer him some important diplomatic post abroad. For the incoming president received his first office as judge by appointment from Foraker when the latter was Governor, and has always felt a keen appreciation of it.

PAY OF TEACHERS
Held Up for Lack of Funds
Unless a special meeting of the common council is called to concur with the board of aldermen in voting a loan of $50,000 for the school committee, Lowell's school teachers will have to go on strike for a few days. The teachers' pay roll has been held up in the auditor's office because of no funds. The next regular meeting of the common council is scheduled for next Tuesday.

For stealing floral tributes from two graves in Pine Grove cemetery, John Abendroth, a shoe cutter, residing at 16 Floyd avenue, was fined $200 by Judge James H. Sisk, says the Lynn Item. An appeal to the superior criminal court was taken. In the arrest of Abendroth, the police believe that the theft of hundreds of floral tributes from graves in Pine Grove cemetery has been explained, for a search of his home revealed, according to the police, "a freight car load" of wire frames which are used by florists in building designs.

Reserve officer Phillips has been watching Pine Grove cemetery for several days as a result of complaints to the police by Superintendent Lane of the cemetery, and about 7 o'clock yesterday Phillips nabbed Abendroth after he had removed a floral piece from a grave.

Then the officers searched the residence of the man. In the cellar they found stacked up in a corner many wire frames for the design known as "gates ajar," in other parts of the cellar, in separate lots, were other common design frames, while a great quantity of ribbon was also found.

Abendroth admitted that he had been taking the frames, but claimed that the flowers had all wilted when he removed the frames from the graves. His plan was to pick up a frame as he went through the cemetery and hide it in the woods.

In explanation of his action, Abendroth told Judge Sisk that the late William Stone, for many years superintendent of Pine Grove, had given him permission to take away the frames after the flowers had wilted. While the cemetery workmen usually throw away the frames after the flowers have lost their life, it is said, that of late, designs which were of some value, for the flowers had not thoroughly wilted, have been stolen, and the discovery of the great quantity of frames in Abendroth's cellar explains where many of them went.

Of course florists buy second hand frames and Abendroth has made it a business to dispose of some of his frames to florists.

A TELEPHONE ALARM
A telephone alarm at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, summoned a portion of the fire department to a brush fire on the side of the river off First street. The fire was quickly extinguished and did no damage.

Of course florists buy second hand frames and Abendroth has made it a business to dispose of some of his frames to florists.

A TELEPHONE ALARM
A telephone alarm at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, summoned a portion of the fire department to a brush fire on the side of the river off First street. The fire was quickly extinguished and did no damage.

For stealing floral tributes from two graves in Pine Grove cemetery, John Abendroth, a shoe cutter, residing at 16 Floyd avenue, was fined $200 by Judge James H. Sisk, says the Lynn Item. An appeal to the superior criminal court was taken. In the arrest of Abendroth, the police believe that the theft of hundreds of floral tributes from graves in Pine Grove cemetery has been explained, for a search of his home revealed, according to the police, "a freight car load" of wire frames which are used by florists in building designs.

Reserve officer Phillips has been watching Pine Grove cemetery for several days as a result of complaints to the police by Superintendent Lane of the cemetery, and about 7 o'clock yesterday Phillips nabbed Abendroth after he had removed a floral piece from a grave.

Then the officers searched the residence of the man. In the cellar they found stacked up in a corner many wire frames for the design known as "gates ajar," in other parts of the cellar, in separate lots, were other common design frames, while a great quantity of ribbon was also found.

Abendroth admitted that he had been taking the frames, but claimed that the flowers had all wilted when he removed the frames from the graves. His plan was to pick up a frame as he went through the cemetery and hide it in the woods.

In explanation of his action, Abendroth told Judge Sisk that the late William Stone, for many years superintendent of Pine Grove, had given him permission to take away the frames after the flowers had wilted. While the cemetery workmen usually throw away the frames after the flowers have lost their life, it is said, that of late, designs which were of some value, for the flowers had not thoroughly wilted, have been stolen, and the discovery of the great quantity of frames in Abendroth's cellar explains where many of them went.

Of course florists buy second hand frames and Abendroth has made it a business to dispose of some of his frames to florists.

PRESIDENT ELIOT

Declined to Become Agent of the Merrimack Mills

President Eliot who resigned as head of Harvard university, was born in Boston March 20, 1834, the son of Samuel Atkins Eliot and Mary (Lyman) Eliot. In 1849 he was graduated from the Boston Latin school as a Franklin medal scholar, and in 1852 was graduated at Harvard university, where he accepted a position as tutor.

In 1858, the year of his marriage to Ellen Derby Peabody, daughter of the Rev. Ephraim Peabody of Boston, he was made assistant professor in mathematics and chemistry at Harvard. In 1861 he was placed in charge of the chemistry department of the Lawrence scientific school for a three-year term.

At the end of his term, he went abroad and studied chemistry in France, Germany and England, besides making a study of educational methods in those countries. He remained abroad for two years, and on his return was offered $5000 a year to become agent of the Merrimack Manufacturing company's mills at Lowell, but declined because he had determined to devote his life to education, and accepted the professorship of analytical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at a much smaller salary.

In 1867 he made a second trip to Europe and visited the Paris exposition. Two years later he wrote a series of papers on "The New Education" in the Atlantic Monthly, which attracted widespread attention because of their clear exposition of foreign systems of education and their fearless criticism of what was weak in American methods.

His election to the presidency of Harvard in succession to Dr. Thomas Hill, resigned, followed soon after, despite opposition in the board of overseers, which once sent his name back to the corporation that had nominated him. His selection was largely due to the Hon. John A. Lowell and the Hon. Francis B. Crowninshield, who,

Acknowledged to be the best place to have your fall and winter dyeing and cleaning done, and now is the time to bring it in before the rush starts. It will make it easier for the manager and you will also profit by it as the work will be more carefully looked after than if the dyeing was done by the piece.

The meeting Tuesday evening also marked the observance of the 5th anniversary of the association and the large drapery department of the well appointed store was turned over to the members. The place was prettily decorated with bunting and plants. The association had for its guest, Harry Dunlap, the founder of the association. Mr. Pollard sent his regrets, he being absent in New York.

ROXBURY MAN DESCRIBES HORRORS IN RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Dramatically relating all the horror of living life with men in the woods while being hunted to be shot down by Russian government officials, Andrew Lashin and Mrs. Katrina Shepte of 3 Prouty street, Roxbury, Mass., were the star witnesses for Jan. Janoff Pouron, Russian revolutionary and refugee, at a hearing before United States Commissioner Hittcock yesterday.

Testimony was brought out to show that the offenses with which Pouron is charged are more political than criminal.

Mrs. Shepte, known as the "Russian Joan D'Arc" because of the prominent part she played in the Russian revolutionary movement, was still testifying in behalf of Pouron when court adjourned until tomorrow.

SCENE AT NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The first national flower show ever held began in the Chicago Coliseum on Nov. 5 and will continue a week. The event not only interests great numbers of people in America, but in Europe as well. Exhibits have been sent not only from all parts of the United States, but also from England and France. An especially large number of chrysanthemum varieties, all new, have been sent from France. Several of H. Nick Twombly's Broodingnagian chrysanthemums, the largest ever grown anywhere on the globe, will be exhibited. Mr. Twombly has a wonderful collection of flowers at his place in Madison, N. J. The triumphs of his hothouses are the chrysanthemums. Some of the plants are twenty feet in diameter and contain 500 blooms. Credit for the creation of sufficient interest to warrant a national flower show belongs largely to representative Chicagoans, among them W. E. Kelley, president of the Chicago Horticultural society; John J. Mitchell, R. T. Crane, F. D. Countess, Charles L. Hutchinson, H. H. Foster, R. N. Isham, C. G. Boyan, W. J. Chalmers, James Hobart Moore, Martin A. Ryerson, Mrs. George M. Pullman, Victor A. Lawson, A. S. Trade and many others. Of those mentioned most of them have estates in such places as Lake Geneva, Lake Forest and Oconomowoc, where they grow rare flowers.

NEW ENGLAND

THE RETURNS FROM FIVE STATES RECEIVED

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Returns from the five New England states—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island—except for a few small precincts in Maine and New Hampshire show the following republican pluralities for president:

Maine 31,500

New Hampshire 18,000

Vermont 28,000

Massachusetts 191,000

Rhode Island 19,000

The only change in the congressional delegation from these five states in the face of the returns is in Rhode Island where the republicans gain one member.

There will be a recount in the 10th Massachusetts district where Congressman Joseph P. O'Connell was returned by a very small margin.

Three of the five states, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, voted for governor on Tuesday and in all three republican candidates were elected by the following pluralities:

New Hampshire—Henry B. Quinnby over Clarence Carr by 1000.

Massachusetts—Eben S. Draper over James H. Vahey by 55,000.

Rhode Island—Arny J. Pothier over Olney Arnold by 7000.

Maine and Vermont elected republican governors at state elections held in September.

All the states have elected legislatures strongly republican but New Hampshire is the only state in which a United States senator is to be chosen and there Jacob Gallinger whose term expires next March will probably be returned.

West Virginia is assured to Taft. First despatches today indicated a plurality of 20,000 or better but Glasscock, republican, for governor, will apparently have less than half of that.

While the republican majority in the national house has been cut there seems no reason to doubt that Cannon will again be elected speaker and will have a republican majority more than sufficient to continue his substantial control of the house.

Taft's plurality in New York state has gone well over the 200,000 mark while Hughes has shrunk from the 75,000 accredited to him yesterday to 70,000 or less. Attention began to turn today to votes of the minor parties, socialist, prohibition and independence parties. It appeared early today that the socialists had been disappointed in their widely avowed expectations of casting "a million or more" votes. In some states had even fallen below their vote of four years ago. In general, however, their vote showing a material increase, justifying the claim of the advocates and the fear of the opponents of socialism that it has become a serious factor in American politics. As for the prohibition vote its totals present a great disappointment to those who expected that "the prohibition wave" which has swept a number of states and hundreds of localities into the "dry" column during the past two years, would show surprising increases in the vote of the party which makes legal prohibition of the liquor traffic its chief issue.

There is an active rumor that John W. Kern, the defeated vice presidential candidate, will be the new senator from Indiana. The state has elected Marshall governor by a plurality of about 50,000, while giving Taft a margin of about 10,000.

Colorado has apparently settled the question definitely in favor of Bryan but the latter's plurality in that state seems to be less than half of that for Shafroth, the democratic candidate for governor and the state legislature will be safely democratic.

CRIMINAL LIBEL

Causes Arrest of Two Filipino Editors

MANILA, Nov. 5.—The editors of El Remanente, the leading Filipino daily newspaper of this city, were arrested today on charges of criminal libel preferred by Commissioner Dean Worcester of the Philippine commission. Worcester affirms in his complaint that he has been assailed politically and professionally and that his personal character has been the object of libelous utterances.

Colorado has apparently settled the question definitely in favor of Bryan but the latter's plurality in that state seems to be less than half of that for Shafroth, the democratic candidate for governor and the state legislature will be safely democratic.

There is an active rumor that John W. Kern, the defeated vice presidential candidate, will be the new senator from Indiana. The state has elected Marshall governor by a plurality of about 50,000, while giving Taft a margin of about 10,000.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Rely, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1908.

JAMES E. O'DONNELL, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest net average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

A WORD TO THE COURIER-CITIZEN.

Under the caption of "antiquated journalism" our esteemed contemporary, the Courier-Citizen, undertakes to read The Sun a lesson on the treatment of candidates for office, and in its excited condition, due, no doubt, to the effects of undue hilarity over the republican victory, our neighbor also undertakes to instruct us in the art of running a newspaper.

Our great offense seems to have been that we supported democratic candidates in the recent election, and incidentally showed up a portion of Congressman Ames' record wherein on an important vote upon the Pure Food bill he is recorded in the Congressional Record as "present and not voting." That was "dodging" an important issue, and we called it by its right name. The particular vote to which we referred will be found in the record of the first session of the fifty-ninth congress on page 9076, volume 40, part 10. The publication of this official record our neighbor termed "the dirtiness of the campaign of which The Sun should be heartily ashamed."

We beg leave to assure our neighbor that there is nothing dirty about the simple statement of a fact which is a matter of public record, and we are not ashamed of our action in exposing a public dodger. If the editor of the Courier-Citizen believes that Butler Ames in dodging this vote on the Pure Food bill did something for which the people of this district should rise up and reward him he is welcome to enjoy the hallucination, but he must not be surprised if some people take a different view of the case. The fact is that Mr. Ames was among the members who dodged the final vote on the Pure Food bill, and when the Courier-Citizen says he worked for the bill it is deceiving the people. We invite the Courier-Citizen to look up the record in the public reading room at City hall and ascertain to what an extent Mr. Ames has bluffed the public including our esteemed and learned neighbor across the way who knows so much about running campaigns and about progressive journalism. We believe Mr. Ames did not do his duty on that occasion, and we said so, but apart from this, we supported Hon. Joseph J. Flynn because he is a democrat, favoring democratic policies, and because, as our esteemed contemporary well knows, he is immeasurably better fitted in every way to represent this or any other district than is Mr. Ames.

This was amply proved by the record of both men in the legislature. Flynn left a record of popular measures enacted into law. Ames' record was a complete blank. Yet this point of comparison does not at all appeal to our esteemed neighbor in Mr. Flynn's favor.

It is plain, therefore, that it is not ability or efficiency that fits a man for public office in the opinion of our non-partisan contemporary. What is it then, may we ask?

So far as we can judge from this particular case, it must be the possession of wealth and a social standing among what our much esteemed contemporary recently termed the "better element." Indeed it is but a short time since our neighbor remarked that our city government should be in charge of this "better element." Here then we get a clear idea of the system of reasoning which our neighbor uses in determining what is and what is not pure and unadulterated non-partisanship. What it terms non-partisanship appears to be merely a leaning towards the so called "better element," the men possessed of wealth who move in high social circles. It would, therefore, seem that because he was a mere bill poster and theatrical manager, Hon. Joseph J. Flynn was abused, misrepresented and maligned by our neighbor during the recent campaign. It surely was not because he was a democrat, for our non-partisan neighbor never considers party labels, don't you know. And for this reason also we presume the same paper connived at the attempt of Mr. Ames and his democratic hirelings to steal the democratic nomination by the most shameless methods.

If any candidate outside of the "better element" should attempt to steal a nomination from a convention of delegates of society leaders we can well imagine the indignation of our non-partisan contemporary.

Perhaps it was for a similar reason also, that Joe Hibbard was pierced with the Courier-Citizen stiletto, which act, by the way, brought him wide sympathy and many votes. If Messrs. Flynn and Hibbard were men of wealth and experts in leading the german at social functions, regardless of any intellectual deficiency, they might never have felt the sting of the non-partisan stiletto. Mr. Flynn is so far above Butler Ames in ability and intellect that any comparison of the two men would be ridiculous. This is well known to our neighbor and to all who know the candidates for congress.

As for Mr. Hibbard, while he is not the equal of Mr. O'Donnell, he is unquestionably far ahead of Butler Ames in ability and intellect, and he is more of a man than our heartless neighbor would have people believe. By an unfortunate accident he lost his leg, but with a spirit that might well be emulated by some of the "better element" he took up the study of music in order that he might earn an honest living. The musical profession, we assert, is one that should not bring upon him the attack of any public journal under the guise of non-partisanship. He has given orchestral music for some of the best social events held in this state, and to brand him as a "mere fiddler whose chief business is to run Saturday night dances," was meaner, dirtier, more cowardly and more to be ashamed of than anything that appeared in local print during this or any other campaign. If that is a sample of "non-partisanship" The Sun wants none of it. If that is the new school of journalism which our neighbor would introduce, The Sun would prefer to go on in the good old way.

Our contemporary is either troubled with a very large bump of conceit or else it is having some strange psychological experiences of late. A short time ago it advised the obliteration of all sectional or denominational lines in church matters without offering any substitute, and now it practically advocates wiping out of political party lines for what it is pleased to style non-partisanship; but it forgets that under the law, we must have party designations and party candidates at the polls in all elections.

The non-partisanship of our neighbor, we fear, is not genuine. It looks too much like a screen for cheap snobbery and class distinction; nor will we believe otherwise, until we see that paper come out squarely in support of a democratic candidate for mayor, something it has never yet done despite all its protestations of non-partisanship, although it had a good opportunity to prove its sincerity when Col. Carmichael ran against the present nonentity at City hall for the office of mayor.

We believe in democratic principles, and under the present political system these principles can be advanced only by support of the democratic party. That is the party which The Sun supports, and it is never ashamed to acknowledge it. We admit that party issues which appear in a state or national campaign have no place in a municipal contest, and we shall not object to any change in the law or in our city charter that will provide for a better system in local contests; but the contest just ended was a national and not a municipal campaign. The law still recognizes political parties in municipal as well as state and national elections, and the voters must take their candidates with the party label or not at all. The Sun supports democratic candidates in municipal politics as well as in state and national, because they invariably appeal to us as the best candidates, offering the prospect of the best government for the whole people and not for any particular "element." The term democracy means something if properly interpreted, and so long as there is a party that represents the masses of the people to a greater extent than any other, The Sun will stand by that party and advocate its principles and the election of its candidates.

When The Sun gets down so low as to support men for office because of their wealth or social standing or becomes mean enough to abuse decent candidates because of their humble means of earning a livelihood, it will not try to cover its perfidy with a veneer of non-partisanship, nor will it presume to lecture any of its contemporaries on how to run a newspaper simply because they differ with us in politics.

SEEN AND HEARD

With the advancing years, says the Boston Transcript, comes the passing of old customs, and in Waltham the early morning mill bell has outlived its usefulness and its ringing is discontinued after generations of use.

For nearly a century the bell on the cotton mill of the Boston Manufacturing company has been rung, at 5 o'clock in the morning, in the early part of the century, even before General Banks became a bobbin boy, the 5 o'clock bell called the residents of the town from rest to labor. It was to give the housekeepers warning that the mill was rung at 5 o'clock, a warning that they would have just time to get breakfast and allow the employees to get to work at 6 o'clock. A second bell was rung at 5:45 o'clock as a warning to the employees to arise and prepare for the day's work. But as the town grew, methods changed. The boarding house features fell into disuse, those who were employed in the mill moved to a remote distance and the corporation houses passed into other hands. But the bell system remained unchanged. Its brazen tones fell on ears for which it was not intended. The reason given by the management for discontinuing the bell is that it is not necessary; that the system calling for its early ringing has passed away, and because mills in other cities have adopted the idea of less bell ringing.

These satirical, graceful, and piquant lines were written by one of the most brilliant men of a brilliant age—Edward de Vere, who was the seventeenth Earl of Oxford. As a votary of fashion, he was a striking figure at the court of Queen Elizabeth, a contemporary of Shakespeare and Spenser and Raleigh. Though he loved to appear to be little more than a man of fashion, he was, nevertheless, a man of vigorous action. In 1585, he headed one of the English squadrons which sailed out to meet and scatter the great Spanish Armada. He was also deep in the politics of his time. As Lord High Chamberlain, he presided over the court which condemned to death Elizabeth's passionate lover, the Earl of Essex. More important still, he converted the court which tried Elizabeth's rival, Mary, Queen of Scots. Lord Oxford wrote but little, and of what he wrote only the poem quoted here deserves remembrance. But its meaning and point have given it a place in all important collections of English lyric poetry. It has the felicity of phrasing which characterizes the poetry of that period.

BY EDWARD DE VERE (1541-1604).

Women could be fair and yet not fond,
Or that their love were firm, not fickle still,
I would not marvel that they make men bound
By service long to purchase their good will;
But when I see how frail these creatures are,
I muse that men forget themselves so far.

To mark the choice they make and how they change,
How oft from Phoebus they do flee to Pan;
Unsettled still, like haggards wild they range.
These gentle birds that fly from man to man;
Who would not scorn and shake them from the first,
And let them fly, fat fools! which way they list?

Ye for disport we fawn and flatter both,
To pass the time when nothing else can please;
And train them to our lure with subtle oath,
Till weary of our wiles ourselves we ease;
And then we say, when we their fancy try,
To play with fools O what a fool was I!

Attention has recently been directed to the number of broods in Glasgow which are in a dying state, their sickly condition being attributed to smoke. A correspondent mentions a singular coincidence in regard to five trees which a John Pattison planted in the centre of his garden in Kelvingrove on the birth of his five sons. Two of his sons died early in the nineteenth century, but three lived till after 1850, when there were only three of the trees standing. On the night that his son Matthew died one of the trees fell, and on the night of Frederick and John's death (some years between) one of the trees fell, certainly, as the writer remarks, a singular coincidence.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Shipwrecked" at the matinee and "On Thanksgiving" at the evening performance were the plays presented by the Bennett-Moulton company at the Opera House yesterday before good sized and enthusiastic audiences. There is no doubt that if all the visiting repertoire companies were of the same excellent quality as that of the Bennett-Moulton company they would all be assured of as seen in the two plays presented yesterday gave excellent renditions of their respective roles and each play was well played. This afternoon the play will be "The Governor's Wife" and tonight "Under Sealed Orders" will be the bill.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Manager Martin of Al. W. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has hit upon an innovation that bids fair to revolutionize the current productions of the well known but ever popular drama. In his employment of white actors and actresses exclusively he has attempted something that has been scorned by other managers as an attempt at the impossible, but while people of theatricals to depict the colored man will not realize the colored man, this fact is recognized by that race, members of which have been unwillingly but their praise for Mr. Martin for giving them a view of their old-time life without any feature of the overdrawn force or caricature.

Lillian Russell's favorite pastimes are collecting Chinese curiosities and watching the races. Her following admirers, this, and they gave forth a merry laugh

Mrs. William Gladstone, who is known on the stage as Miss Grace George and who comes here soon, fence and rifles for a novel reason. She does it, she claims, that she may be better fitted for the reading, "The brain," she declares, "is simply a portion of the body, and moreover it derives its sustenance from what nurtures the body. The mind grows and is developed together; one cannot be healthy without the other."

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's new bill at the Theatre Voyns will be "The Football Warrior," a most interesting and dramatic story of college life. The principal character is an Indian, who has, from his significant playing on the football team, attracted the attention of some of his classmates. Another fact which tends to provoke the hatred of one in particular is that one of the belles of the college long seemingly prefers the company of the football warrior to that of a rich but dissipated student. During the course of a game the Indian is badly hurt at the instigation of his white rival, and is taken from the field. Later in the game, however, his team needs him and despite the orders of the doctor he returns to the field and takes part in the closing plays of the game. His rival, who has caused his injuries by bribing an opponent to steal him, makes several further attempts to discredit the Indian, but the story ends with the football warrior successful, not only in sport, but in love, for he wins the hand of the girl he loves.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

It is barely possible that you don't care for ventriloquism, some people don't, but just get a glimpse of the really wonderful work of Ed. F. Reynard, at Hathaway's theatre this week, and it's a safe wager that you will sit up and take notice. His act is without question the best thing of its kind ever attempted on the vaudeville stage. The little sketch is called "A Morning in Belleville."

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Deshon-Pitt stock company is satisfying large audiences at the Academy of Music this week, with its excellent presentation of the thrilling western drama, "Eagle's Nest," which is being produced under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Pitt, the artistic stage director of the company. Mr. Pitt, in staging "Eagle's Nest," has clothed the attraction with especially rich scenic dress and has given his attention to every little detail relative to the proper presentation of his great offering. The members of the company are well cast and each one contributes to the success of the production. Mr. Victor Bengtson is seen to best advantage in "Eagle's Nest," for its situations bordering on tragedy are particularly well suited to his style of acting. Tomorrow afternoon a reception will be held on the stage after the matinee performance, while tomorrow evening the merry amateurs will hold forth at the conclusion of the regular performance. Seats for the remaining performances may be ordered at the box office in advance by telephone.

NEW AMERICAN

Dreadnought Turned Out at Quincy, Mass.

QUINCY, Nov. 5.—The battleship North Dakota, known as the new American Dreadnought, will be launched at Quincy, Mass., on Nov. 10. Secretary of the Navy Messers will attend the ceremonies, and Miss Mary L. Boston of Fargo, N. D., will act as sponsor. Naval experts believe the North Dakota will prove the fastest battleship afloat. When in commission she will be accompanied by Captain Charles J. Badger, superintendent of the Naval academy.

HOTEL BURNED

FIRE STARTED FROM AN OVERHEATED FURNACE

BROOKFIELD, Nov. 5.—Fire, which started in the Metropole hotel shortly after midnight this morning, destroyed the hotel, causing a damage of $30,000. Other buildings in the neighborhood were threatened, but they were saved after a hard fight by the local department, reinforced by a steamer from East Brookfield and a hook and ladder from North Brookfield.

All the guests, about 10 in number, escaped. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Mulcahey, wife of the proprietor, who woke her husband when she smelled smoke. He went to investigate and found a volume of smoke pouring out of the cellar windows. Mr. Mulcahey tried to go into the cellar to find the fire, but was driven back by the flames. After sounding two alarms he rushed from room to room alarming the guests and all were able to get out safely, although many of them lost their clothes and many of their personal belongings.

Very little was saved from the building which was valued at $30,000. It was a three-story wooden structure which was moved to its present site about a year ago. It had a large patronage as a summer hotel, being regarded as the best in Brookfield, and kept open throughout the year. The fire started from an overheated furnace.

STAR THEATRE

"The Frontiersman's Bride" is a thrilling picture story of the life of a pioneer settler in the time of the savage Indians. The settler has taken his bride into the heart of the wilderness, where for a time they live happily and unmolested, but finally a day comes when the Indians' hatred is aroused. They attack the white intruder, carry off his wife and leave him bound, hand and foot in his burning house. He manages to loosen his bonds, though he has reached him and barely escapes. With a party of his fellowmen he has summoned him pursues the Indians, and after much shooting and killing on both sides finally rescues his bride. This picture begins today.

Tomorrow, "The Boy Detective" and "Willie's Fall From Grace" will be the additional talking pictures. The latter is a lively comedy and no doubt will be an immense success.

One knows, "Smile on Me" and "No One Knows," are pretty little ballads beautifully illustrated. The management reports that business is steadily increasing, and this they well may be, undoubtedly due to the popularity of the talking pictures. They can only be seen at the Star.

JUDGE SHUTE READ

Judge Henry A. Shute, author of the "Real Diary of a Boy," gave reading from his own stories at the Elliot Congregational church last night and he pleased admirably. The entertainment was held under the auspices of the Sabrey club of the church. There were about 250 present and the affair was a big success financially and otherwise.

DIED SUDDENLY

JUST AS PAPERS IN LOVE SUIT WERE FILED

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—That the defendant in a $10,000 suit for alienation of affections was killed by a fall from a roof on the very day on which the papers in the case were filed became known yesterday, when attorneys for Charles H. Call of Somerville stated that they were unaware of the sudden death of S. Peter Larsen, a wealthy Somerville contractor.

Last June Call left his wife and took his young son to 17 Appleton street, Somerville. Last Monday he charged Larsen with alienating his wife's affections in a suit filed in the Middlesex superior court asking for $10,000 damages. That same morning Larsen fell from a roof in Winchester and died that night in the Massachusetts general hospital.

Call's lawyers, ignorant of the accident, filed the papers between the time of Larsen's fall and his death. When they were informed of the death of the defendant yesterday they said that the suit would have to be dropped, but they thought another suit might be filed.

The charge in the suit alleges that Larsen alienated Mrs. Call's affections from August, 1907, to June, 1908.

ENGLISH GIRL

TWICE DEPORTED FOR BELIEF IN POLYGAMY

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Delphine Doddsworth, the pretty 21-year-old English girl of blonde complexion who, because she said she believed in plural marriages, was deported last September, after attempting to land in Boston, has just suffered a second deportation, this time from Salt Lake City, Utah.

She succeeded in getting into Utah from Canada, but the immigration officers heard of her last attempt to get into the United States and acted promptly.

In the early part of September the girl was held up by the immigration officers of this port because she declared that she believed in the Mormon doctrine of polygamy. She said she had become converted in England. At the time Senator Reed Smoot of Utah came on from Washington and interested himself in the case. The girl, however, was sent back to England.

It appears that after this the young Mormon tried to enter the country by way of Canada, and she was reunited with her family at Salt Lake City some weeks ago.

She was finally taken to Montreal by train in the custody of an immigration official.

LATEST RETURNS

Show That Taft Will Have 309 Electoral Votes

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Practically complete returns received up to a late hour last night indicated that William H. Taft of Ohio, as president-elect, will have a vote of 309 in the electoral college. This is within sixteen votes of the forecast made by National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock and 67 more than a majority out of the total electoral vote of 482.

The most important news of the late returns indicates that Maryland, after vacillating during the day and apparently being safe for democracy, has been swung into the Taft column. The unofficial figures give Mr. Taft the state by 135 votes.

Maryland was the last of the doubtful states to be heard from. Indiana and West Virginia, as well as Montana, turned out to be safely republican. Colorado went for Bryan.

Mr. Bryan has a total of 174 votes, two less than he received in 1896. In 1904 Mr. Taft received only 140 votes. In 1900 Mr. Bryan received 153 votes, and in 1896 the Nebraskan received 176 votes.

Mr. Taft's 309 electoral votes compare with 236 received by Roosevelt in 1904, 252 received by McKinley in 1900 and 271 by McKinley in 1896.

No changes of material interest have been reported in the congressional returns today. The republicans will have about the same working majority in the sixty-first congress as at present, and Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, undoubtedly will succeed himself as speaker.

Representatives Jesse Overstreet of Ohio and Hepburn of Iowa, are the most conspicuous among those who have failed to re-elect.

The senate retains its present complexion, although there will be a material change in the personnel of the upper branch of the national legislature.

The states carried by Mr. Bryan are as follows:

Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 9; Colorado, 6; Florida, 5; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 12; Louisiana, 10; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 18; Nevada, 3; Nebraska, 9; North Carolina, 12; Oklahoma, 5; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 18; Virginia, 12. Total 174.

All the rest of the states are safe for Taft with the exception of Maryland, where the issue is so close that an official count may be necessary to finally determine the result.

National Chairman Norman E. Mack of the democratic party, issued a statement last night in which he declared that he did not believe Mr. Bryan would again be a candidate for the presidency. He said he believed that the Nebraskan might be a candidate for the United States senate in 1911, provided the legislature of his state is democratic in that year, when the first vacancy occurred.

The latest returns indicate that in the national house of representatives, the republicans have 268 members and the democrats 172, with eleven districts missing.

Judge Taft's plurality in the state of New York, according to corrected returns late last night is 208,495, more than 28,000 in excess of President Roosevelt's plurality of four years ago. Governor Charles E. Hughes was re-elected in New York state by 71,158.

The returns as between president and governor indicate a heavy splitting of tickets. The proportion of scratched ballots was about the same in the up-state districts and in greater New York.

Last night's returns were watched with a great deal of interest, not in the belief that they could have any possible effect upon the national result, but because of local conditions. The heavy vote in Ohio made the extraordinary late evening in the immense size of the ballot.

Mr. Taft carried his own state, however, by 50,000 plurality, a reduction of more than 200,000 from the Roosevelt vote of 1904.

TAFT IS HAPPY

He Will Take Two Weeks' Rest

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—Early yesterday morning, W. H. Taft gave hearty expression to the gratification he felt on his election as president of the United States. Business, labor and agriculture, he declared, had supported him. His success, he said, should be also the success of the country, if his ability and endeavor could make it so.

"Please say that I am perfectly healthy but tired," was the message Judge Taft wished uttered for him last night. With Mrs. Taft family yesterday, going forth only once, and then to receive the plaudits of thousands of his fellow townsmen as they lined the streets and filled the windows for blocks in the line of march of the parade of the Woodward High school pupils, faculty and trustees, Mr. Taft made the principal address at the corner stone laying of the new building of this school, from which he graduated when a boy.

The function gave the city an opportunity to pay its first daylight tribute to the president-elect and full advantage was taken of it. Judge Taft did not refer to the election or politics in his brief address but confined himself to the history of the school, which held for him many fond memories.

A speech to the Women's Foreign Mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church in annual sessions here today and a banquet of the Cincinnati Commercial club tonight, constitute the public functions which will occupy Judge Taft before he leaves for Hot Springs, Va., Friday.

"I am going away for a complete rest for at least two weeks," said Judge Taft last night. "Now, I am not going to hold political conferences, neither am I going to consider cabinet construction, nor political appointments during this time. It is to be a period of as near absolute rest and quiet as I can make it."

Three thousand or more telegrams of congratulation were delivered to Judge Taft yesterday. They included messages from cabinet officers, senators, representatives, ambassadors, politicians, residents of the Philippine islands and the Far East, and personal friends and admirers. Many telegrams came from business organizations and labor societies throughout the country.

Members of the Boston chamber of commerce telegraphed to Mr. Taft that his administration would redound to his own honor and to the lasting advantage of the American people. The president, E. J. Rothwell, invited Mr. Taft to attend a dinner of the chamber of commerce in the near future.

One of the interesting telegrams that came from the Philippines was from the friends. The telegram that pleased Mr. Taft most, however, were those from his children. His daughter Helen, wired from Bryn Mawr, where she is a first year student: "Heartiest congratulations. I never was so happy in my life."

From his son Robert, at Yale, came an equally enthusiastic telegram and Charles, the youngest son, expressed his good feeling through a telegram sent by his uncle, Horace Taft, from Watertown, Cal. Charles is attending school. Dispatches also were received representing the good sentiment of Henry W. Taft and family from New York.

Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island congratulated Mr. Taft on his great victory, to which he said Rhode Island republicans are proud to have contributed their full share.

USE OF WATER
LAWS RELATING TO THIS QUESTION IN SINGLE VOLUME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The National Conservation commission is compiling for publication in a single volume all the laws and court decisions, both state and federal, which relate to the use of water in the United States. This manual will be of immense practical value and it is somewhat remarkable, considering the wide number of interests which are touched by these laws, that no such compilation has been made before this.

The constantly growing demand for inter-state waterways, the increasing utilization of water power for the development of electricity, and the widening areas of semi-arid western plains that are being made arable through irrigation, these laws at the present time affect the interests of a wide variety of individuals and corporations, and in the immediate future the number whose business is directly touched will be greatly increased.

The work which the National Conservation commission is doing along this line is extremely thorough and the compilation will be complete. It will include all state and national statutes and all court decisions which concern water rights and kindred questions on both navigable and non-navigable streams and lakes. The citations will include all acts which relate to riparian rights, and public use of water, and all statutes which concern mills, pollution of water, interference with navigation or the use of streams for power, damming of streams, diverting streamflow, and so on—in short, all acts which affect the use of waters and their private appropriation to power or other purposes. In the book will be included also some authoritative discussion of the principles involved in these laws.

The National Conservation commission in its endeavor to make the compilation absolutely complete and accurate has called upon the governors of all the states for assistance and the replies in every instance have promised support. Considerably more than half the states have already appointed State Conservation commissions for the specific purpose of co-operating with the national commission in its work of gathering the material which will be embodied in the report to the president the first of the year.

In the other states the state officials whose work most nearly touches this project are at work.

A single volume containing all the laws which bear upon the use of water in the various parts of the country, will be an exceedingly useful reference handbook. It is a possibility of an ever greater usefulness in that it will exhibit within limits that make ready comparison possible, not only the general tendencies of the laws and decisions in this subject, but the discrepancies that exist between the regulations of different states.

The fear is frequently expressed that the tendency towards monopolization of water power, which has already made very great progress in some parts of the country, will result in practically all of this extremely valuable natural resource passing from the people as a whole into the hands of comparatively a few men, with resulting higher cost of water power and water-developed electricity to consumers, and a tremendous advantage to the few possessors. If this danger is justified by the present laws, it is a matter of great importance to make this fact apparent at once. For this purpose nothing could be more effective than such a presentation of all the laws on the subject as that which the commission is preparing.

FATALLY INJURED

Woman Thrown Over 16-Foot Embankment

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Seven persons in a big automobile en route from New York to Albany, were hurled over a sixteen foot embankment near Coeymans, Albany county, Tuesday night. All were injured and Mrs. Mabel Oakford, one of the party, died later at the Albany hospital in this city. Owing to an accident to the steering gear the chauffeur was unable to make a sharp turn at the approach of a bridge over a creek. The machine was owned by Edward E. Albee of New York city, general manager of Keith and Proctor's vaudeville circuit. The occupants of the car were Mr. Albee and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell of New York; Mrs. Mabel Oakford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Gerson and the chauffeur, Joseph Stafford of New York.

It was said at the hospital yesterday that Mrs. Albee and Mrs. Gerson suffered serious injuries and may not live. Mrs. Mitchell was also badly injured. The others are expected to recover.

THE BALKAN SITUATION

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Balkan situation has taken on an alarmist aspect in the past day or two, owing to renewed rumors that hostilities are imminent between Serbia and Austria-Hungary.

TO ACCEPT REDUCTION

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The papermakers employed in the International Paper company's plant at Fort Edward, who went out on strike on August 1, held a meeting last night and decided, it is announced, to accept the reduction. It is reported that similar action was taken in other places where mills are located.

MAIDEN SPEECH

Candidate Brown Opened His Campaign Today

"With a mission and without a muzzle."

Such is the slogan of George Brown, republican candidate for mayor, who opened his campaign today with a noon hour speech at the Lowell Machine shop gate before a large and evidently appreciative audience.

Mr. Brown was unattended and introduced himself and he hadn't been talking long when he had a huge audience. In the course of his remarks he mentioned matters by a few references to wholesalers and brewers that pleased the crowd immensely.

Candidate Brown's topic today was "The Campaign," and he spoke in part as follows: "As this is my first speech in the campaign, I am not as fully prepared as I would like to be, but I am going to say a few words on the subject of the unemployed in Lowell. We have too many of them and they are doing it too hard to get work. If you know anything about municipal affairs you must know that any man who has a reticement in Lowell can call on the pauper department to support him. If he goes down and out."

Now who supports the pauper department but the taxpayer whose taxes are regulated by the amount of money spent by the different municipal departments of city hall and the pauper department is one of the biggest in point of expenditure of the whole of them. Thus by reducing the number of people who get aid from the pauper department you reduce the expense of that department and finally the expense of the taxpayer. Now my idea is this: to establish a municipal employment bureau without expense to either the city or the fellow looking for the job. In city hall we have a number of clerks who would not be overworked if this additional burden was placed upon them. Suppose we establish an employment bureau in city hall and ask every man out of work to register his name and address and his trade. If he has any, and classify them so that a man seeking a carpenter can pick one out at once and then call upon the superintendent of streets and the other municipal departments employing much labor, the corporations and the citizens at large to go to city hall and consult these lists when they need help. I think that in a short time we will have a system that will benefit all concerned. Suppose a farmer on the outskirts wants a man to do chores for a week. All he has to do is to come to city hall and he will have a bunch to pick from while any honest man out of work will jump at a chance to go to work and he will not have to chafe all over the city of Lowell looking for it."

After the meeting Mr. Brown was seen by a reporter of The Sun, and he said: "Tomorrow at 12:35 I shall be at the Hamilton gate to make a speech and Saturday night at 7:30 I will address the voters at Tower's corner. I can't hire a hall but I will make a speech daily, explaining the points in my platform until the date of the caucus. I am heart and soul in this contest, and in this fight of a municipal employment bureau, and I will welcome any suggestions from interested parties. As I go along I shall refer to the different departments at city hall and the different public service corporations in Lowell that are getting by very easily."

MORSE WAS ANGRY

The Former "Ice King" Assaulted Photographer

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Charles F. Shirke, the juror whose sudden illness was responsible for an interruption in the deliberation of the jury in the trial of Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, the bankers, last night was reported to be much better today. It was said that Mr. Shirke would be able to go to court with his fellow jurors and that unless something unexpected occurred there was no fear of a mistrial as a result of the juror's condition. Shirke's sudden illness resulted in Judge Hough ordering the jury back to their hotel early last evening before a decision had been reached on a verdict.

Mr. Curtis, one of the defendants, accompanied by Mrs. Curtis, arrived early today. Morse did not reach the courtroom so early but his attorneys said he was on the way down-town. Juror Shirke whose illness caused an early adjournment last night appeared to be much better when the jurors reached court.

That the wait for a verdict would be a long one became certain this forenoon when after nearly twenty hours of deliberation the jury came into court and asked for further instructions on points of law involved. No verdict had been reached at that time but hope that the jury eventually would agree was strengthened by the willingness of the jurors to continue their deliberations.

The tedium of waiting was relieved for a time early this afternoon when a newspaper photographer attempted to snapshot Charles W. Morse and the two ladies who accompanied him when he was leaving the courtroom for luncheon. Just as the camera man was about to snap the shutter Morse sprang at him, seized the camera and smashed it and gave the photographer a black eye.

SUPREME COURT TAFT TO BRYAN

To Come in at Boston Monday

The Victor Thanks His Opponent

The supreme judicial court, full bench, for the counties of Middlesex, Suffolk, Barnstable, Dukes and Norfolk, will come in at Boston next Monday. At this session the exceptions in the case of Commonwealth vs. Wotton will be argued. Wotton was found guilty of accepting a bribe and sentenced to six months in jail, and to pay a fine of $500. This sentence is held up pending the decision of the supreme court upon the exception taken at the trial by counsel for defense, George R. Swasey. The exceptions will be argued on or about the 27th of November.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—"I thank you sincerely for your cordial and courteous telegram of congratulation and good wishes."

This is Mr. Taft's reply to Mr. Bryan's message. The message from Mr. Bryan came while Mr. Taft was addressing the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. He received the message on his return to his residence and answered it at once.

In his address to the women Mr. Taft gave an enthusiastic commendation of foreign mission work. His experience in the far east, he said, had taught him the value of this work in uplifting these people.

The contracting parties were Frederick di Palma of Rome, Italy, and Miss Rosalie Agnes Williams of this city. The hour for the nuptial mass was ten o'clock, and long before that hour the beautiful church with its magnificent proportions and splendid appointments was crowded from the sanctuary to the

AN INJUNCTION

To Prevent Removal of Bonds and Other Property

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The superior court today granted the petition of A. B. Turner & Co., a Boston banking firm, for a preliminary injunction restraining Foster Hooper and Ernest C. Devine, the latter sometimes known as Richard V. Parker, from removing bonds and other property from a safe deposit box, which, it is alleged, they hold in a safe deposit company in this city. Devine, it is alleged, secured $25,000 worth of bonds from the plaintiff on Sept. 19 last by means of a forged check. Hooper is accused of get-

ARE FILING PAPERS

Candidates Rush to Headquarters With Nomination Papers

The time for filing nomination papers for the city election closed this afternoon at 5 o'clock and up to the time of going to press the candidates were filing their papers rapidly. If all candidates who took out papers file them the poor men who count the ballots will have their hands full. On the democratic end five mayoral candidates had taken out papers and two of them, Messrs. Cummings and Carmichael, had filed them at 3 o'clock.

Fourteen aspirants for the democratic nomination for aldermen took out papers and nine, all of whom are new candidates, had filed theirs early as follows: John J. Delaney, Thomas J. McDermott, William F. Stafford, Philip H. Halsey, John McManus, Jeremiah Connors, William Curtin, John R. Clancy and Alexander Rountree.

The members of the present board of aldermen, all of whom are candidates for re-election, had not filed their papers up to the time of going to press. At republican headquarters Clerk Goward stated that he could not give out the identity of the candidates who had filed until the papers had been opened after five o'clock, as he took only the names of the parties filing the papers and not the names of the candidates. Four mayoralty candidates took out papers and 23 candidates for aldermen did likewise. In one of the republican wards it is understood that there are 23 candidates for the common council.

A remarkable fact in relation to the candidates for alderman is that while ward eight is the largest republican ward in the city only one alderman candidate out of the 26 resides in that ward and he is George B. McKiddan, who at present represents the ward in the common council.

Councilman Cotter Returns

Councilman John J. Cotter of ward two, who has been away for several weeks on a big contract in New Jersey, returned to Lowell in time to vote for Bryan and to take out his papers for the re-nomination for the common council in ward two.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Believes Reforms He Advocates Will be Adopted

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—Wm. J. Bryan issued the following statement today:

"The election has gone against us by a decisive majority. The returns are not all in and it is impossible at the present time to analyze them or to say what causes contributed most to the republican victory. We made our fight upon a platform which embodied what we believed to be good for the American people, but it is for the people themselves to decide what laws they desire and what methods of government they prefer. I have faith that the publicity which we asked for will set commend itself to the American people, that the election of senators by the people will be secured, that the opposition of the trusts will arouse an opposition of the principle of private monopoly. I am confident that the people will see the necessity for the labor legislation and the tariff reduction which our platform demanded. I am confident, too, that the educational work done in this campaign will result in securing greater protection to bank depositors. The above are the most prominent reforms for which we labored and I believed that these reforms will yet come, together with more effective regulation of railroads and independence for the Philippines."

"I desire to commend the work of our national committee. I am entirely satisfied with Mr. Mack as the chairman and with the members of the committee. I do not see what they did and as for myself I put forth every effort in my power to secure victory for our cause. The nomination came from the hands of the voters I have obeyed their command and have led as best I could. Words will not express my gratitude for the devotion which has been shown by millions of democrats during the past twelve years. Neither am I able to adequately express my appreciation for the kind words which have been spoken since the election. If I could regard the defeat as purely a personal one I would consider it a blessing rather than a misfortune for I am relieved of the burdens and responsibilities of an office which is attractive only in proportion as it gives an opportunity to render a larger public service. But I shall serve as willingly in a private capacity as in a public one. God does not require great things of us. He only requires that we improve the opportunities that are presented and I shall be glad to improve the opportunities for service presented by private life."

A NEW TRIAL
WILL BE ASKED IN CASE AGAINST BISHOP CO

In the case of Prouty vs. the J. C. Bishop company, an action of tort for personal injuries, in which the jury returned a verdict of $300 for the plaintiff, a motion for a new trial was argued this afternoon. Hon. Wm. C. Knox of Lawrence for the defense, Pratt & Devine for the plaintiff.

Sec'y Root and Whitelaw Reid Seem to Be in Lead

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—In connection with the United States senatorship from New York state which will become vacant on March 4 next with the expiration of the term of T. C. Platt, two names, hitherto much discussed, moved up to the front today and were received with much interest. That of Secretary of State Root was most discussed for the reason that he was mentioned in a Washington story as having the support of President Roosevelt. The other name most discussed today is that of Whitelaw Reid, ambassador of the United States to Great Britain and long editor of the Tribune.

EX. Lieut. Gov. Timothy Woodruff, Ex-Gov. Black and Congressman Frederick E. Blinira are the others most frequently mentioned in this connection.

Republican politicians said today that the situation this year was not unlikely to develop as much interest, if not bitterness as that of three years ago when Chauncey M. Depew was elected.

MAYOR BESIEGED THE STREET DEPT.

By Moving Picture Machine Men Today

Mayor Farnham was kept busy this morning receiving and considering applications and applicants for permission to run moving picture shows on Sundays. No less than four gentlemen put in their appearance this morning, representing as many different show concerns. His Honor listened patiently to what the respective agents had to say, and to each he said: "I will take the matter up at my earliest convenience, and give it serious consideration."

Work in the street department will be continued until the snow flies.

The work on the Merrimack square sewer will be finished in about three weeks. The work is now approaching Central street and a platform will be built to allow pedestrians to pass over to Merrimack street.

Superintendent Morse and his department were very busy this morning in placing in position the storm guards on Centralville, Allen street, and Moody street bridges.

ARMLESS MAN
SHOWS THAT HE WAS ABLE TO THROW

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—William Corbin with only the stump of one arm, furnished a perplexing problem to Judge McManis.

The cripple was arraigned for having hit Aaron Ladd, colored, of Canfield court, on the head with a brick. The judge could not understand how the prisoner, without hands and only the stump of an arm, could throw anything, or pick up a missile. Corbin pleaded guilty and then illustrated how it was done by seizing up the judge's ink well in the crook of the one arm of his bow.

He was restrained from demonstrating how it was thrown by Court Officer Murdock. But the judge's clock was rung. Corbin had spilled the ink. He was fined the costs.

6 O'CLOCK OLD TIMERS' DAY

Several "Rounders" Before Judge Hadley Today

One Drunk Arrived From Scotland Only Yesterday — Agent Richardson Calls a Woman the Biggest Liar He Ever Met

"The best laid plans of mice and men oft gang a-gley," sorrowfully thought Jimmy Watson as he sat in his cell in police station this morning waiting patiently to ascertain where he was at and what he was there for. Jimmy didn't know whether he was in the ship's hold or in a lockup in "Glasgow."

Watson arrived in America yesterday from Scotland and within 12 hours of his arrival in East Boston he was locked up in the police station at Lowell for drunkenness. In court this morning he had not quite come to and pleaded guilty without a murmur.

When Judge Hadley learned the circumstances of Watson's case, he remarked: "That's a creditable way to start to celebrate your arrival in this country. You had better get back to the other side. We have enough of them over here already." Watson was taxed $2.

Old Timers' Day

It appeared to be "Old Timers' Day" in court today, for one drunk was in for the 12th time, another for the 23d and a third for the 24th. But all were in for the first time within a year and were fined.

Jumped Freight

Frank G. Duffey and Thomas F. Mulligan, while drunk last evening, attempted to board a freight train and the train stopped and they were put off and then arrested. Mulligan drank being drunk, but Sergeant Duffey and Officer Frank Donovan said otherwise. It was Mulligan's 17th time, but the first time within a year. Both men were fined $2.

Back to the Farm

Thomas McLaughlin, a parole man from the state farm, will be back in time to harvest the winter cabbages.

Cebula Pinched $10

Peter Cebula, who had been arrested only 15 minutes before, was asked by an interpreter to plead guilty or not guilty of larceny, and he replied: "I did not steal if I took it." That was good enough for the prosecution, but not for the court, who said: "He took it without intent to commit larceny, perhaps. Enter a plea of not guilty." It was claimed that Cebula stole $10 from the pants pocket of a fellow boarder this morning and when the prosecution put on as the first witness a woman, who said she saw the defendant place his hand in the other man's pants pocket and then followed him and had him arrested, the court asked where the man was who owned the money.

"He is still looking for this fellow," said the deputy. "He went out one way and this woman went another and found him and had him arrested."

But the court insisted that the man who owned the money should be there first, to show that the money had been taken, whereupon the deputy remarked that the money had been recovered in the pocket of the defendant and that he had admitted to the police that he stole it. The court declared to take the confession until the corpus delicti or main body of the complaint had been shown and the case was continued until tomorrow, to enable the police to produce the money.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Bartels, Thelen & Co., shoe manufacturers of Chelsea, in the United States district court here today by creditors. The petition is signed by P. Ketchum, J. E. Rousmaniere and the Boston Machine Works Co., with liabilities totaling about $2500. The petitioners alleged as act of bankruptcy that the firm on Oct. 6 last made a general assignment to Lee M. Friedman, R. C. King and B. N. Johnson. No figures as to assets and liabilities were made public today.

Mr. Edgar W. Lemman, baggage-master at the White Star Line, Boston, Mass., and Miss Lillian G. O'Neil, of Gorham street, East Chelmsford, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the parochial residence of the Sacred Heart church. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Fletcher. Miss O'Neil was the well known milliner at the Ben Marché. The bride was attended by Miss Etta Robinson of Lowell and the groom by Mr. John W. Devine of Charlestown.

The happy couple departed on the 4.30 train for a trip to New York and Washington. On their return they will reside at Beaumont, Mass. They will be at home after Jan. 1, 1909 at 25 Crescent avenue.

the man who lost the money. "The man who owned the money enjoys a name like a college yell, to wit: Wozetock Yerak."

Family Troubles

Wulfrid Bordenau, when asked to plead to a charge of non-support, replied: "I'm guilty in one way." The court interpreted that as a plea of not guilty.

Mrs. Bordenau, a very pretty little woman, decidedly youthful in appearance, took the stand and told her story.

She married Bordenau nearly two years ago, when he was on a month's furlough from the marine corps, and she stated that her husband had given her only $2 since July 1. After a long tale of their troubles, she said: "I'm afraid of him harming me."

"I guess there's no danger," remarked Bordenau.

"He said that if he ever saw me with another fellow he would kick me both and that if he saw me with another fellow in a dance hall he would kick me both."

"But you don't go to dances with other men, do you?" asked the court.

"Yes, she does," promptly answered the defendant for her.

"I go to dances, but not with other men," replied the witness demurely, "and he goes to them, too," she added.

"Well, I think you had better keep away from them," said the court.

After the pair had talked back and forth for a few minutes, the court remarked: "It is so hard to make these young people appreciate their relationship and responsibility in such cases."

The court then placed Bordenau on probation on his promise to pay his wife $2 per week.

"The Biggest Liar"

"She's one of the biggest liars that ever came down the pike," said Agent Richardson of the Humane society to Judge Hadley, relative to Mrs. Mary A. McDonald, who had her husband arrested for non-support. Everyone was surprised for Mrs. McDonald, a neat and comely looking woman, had told a straightforward story regarding her experiences with her husband. Mrs. McDonald stated that she had received $1 from her husband since Jan. 1st and that he was a gentleman who didn't believe in working for himself but wanted to support the child who is three years of age.

"When we got any money he would spend it to go to a ball game," said Mrs. McDonald.

"And she'd spend it to go to the Lake view theatre," retorted Mr. Richardson.

Sympathy was all with the woman until Agent Richardson took the stand and told his respects to the couple. Said Agent Richardson: "They have worked every charitable institution and every church and every minister in Lowell. They are professionals."

The court then ordered the complaint changed to that of non-support of the child, and McDonald pleaded guilty. The little one is now at the city farm. McDonald was sentenced to three months in jail and placed on probation for six months, during which time he must support the child.

BURNED AT SEA SUPERIOR COURT

Captain and Crew of Schooner Were Rescued Verdict of $3,500 Was Ren- dered in Proulx-Bishop Case

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The burning at sea of the schooner Frank Barnett was made known today in a private dispatch received by her owners, the George McQuesten Co. of this city. Captain Francis and crew of five men were rescued by the United Fruit Co.'s steamer Brewster bound from Boston for Port Antonio and were landed in Jamaica today.

The Frank Barnett sailed from Boston October 27 for Brunswick, Ga., in ballast to load lumber. Fire broke out on November 1 and spread rapidly. When they saw that the vessel was doomed Captain Francis and the members of the crew took to the boats. Not long after they had abandoned their vessel they were sighted and picked up by the Brewster. The point where the vessel was abandoned was about latitude 38.28 north, longitude 71.35 west. Soon after the men were rescued the burning schooner was sighted by the steamer Massilia bound from Marseilles for New York which was unable to make out her name. The vessel was then ablaze from stem to stern and the masts had been burned off and were lying alongside. Captain Francis and the members of the crew all live in the vicinity of Boston.

The Frank Barnett was built at Belfast, Me., in 1903. She registered 74 tons net was 191 feet in length, 37 feet beam and 19 feet depth of hold. She was valued at about $35,000 and was well insured.

The will provides that the $5,000,000 given to the city shall not be used for the purchase of additional land, but simply to improve and maintain the common and other public parks.

BETRAYS SLAYERS

Woman Night Rider Rode In Raids With Band

UNION CITY, Tenn., Oct. 5.—When a woman, heavily guarded by troops, was brought here from the outlawing forays yesterday and held to give testimony before the grand jury, it became known that the night riders who hounded Captain Rankin two weeks ago, were so well organized that they even employed a secretary and bookkeeper to record their plans and keep their funds.

This woman is Mrs. Ella Price, thirty years old, an original member of the "night riders" clan at Reelfoot Lake, but she was almost fatally beaten by the men of the band a week ago when they found she was about to betray the slayers of Rankin.

The authorities learned that Mrs. Price had previously accompanied the night riders on many of their raids. She is expected to make extraordinary revelations regarding their atrocities.

Dressed in male attire, she was accustomed to ride upon a horse at the head of the band, and was recognized as one of its leaders.

When no raids were on, it was the woman's part to remain at one of the numerous camps and acting as secretary and bookkeeper of the band, keep record of their plans and count and divide the plunder they had gathered in their raids on the countryside.

After the Rankin lynching and the burning of Esquire Reese, the fierce life of the band pulled on the woman, and she decided to betray them. Some of the leaders heard of her plan, and she was beaten into insensibility and then cast adrift in the forest to die.

For a week she wandered about with her children, helpless and almost starved, being found both the authorities and the night riders. But yesterday, a farmer to whom she appealed for food, brought word of her plight to the troops. A company of her brought her in yesterday.

She will tell her whole story today when six night riders are brought before the grand jury on the charge of having slain Captain Rankin at Reelfoot Lake.

Hamilton Cases Settled

Dunbar for the defendants. These cases grew out of the explosion in the Hamilton mills in which several men were injured.

Sues Insurance Co.
The case of John J. Everson of Newton vs. General Accident Fire and Insurance company of Perth, Scotland, with an agency in Philadelphia and an office in Boston who sues to recover for the loss of a hand on an accident policy took up the entire session yesterday.

The plaintiff is a manufacturer of insular earth or "tripolite" and his works are about eight miles from St. John, N. B. The plaintiff was insured against ordinary accidents in the sum of $5000; but a clause in the policy, under which the action is brought, calls for double benefits in certain cases, one of these provisions being an injury sustained by "the burning of a building in which the insured shall be at the commencement of the fire." The policy also provides for such accidents as the loss of an arm, the damage to be $10,000; and for the loss of a hand "at or above the wrist," one-half the principal sum. The plaintiff claims damages under these provisions in the sum of $10,000, and for $30 additional, for the cost of amputation, also provided for in the policy.

The accident by which the plaintiff received an injury to his right hand, necessitating amputation three inches above the wrist, occurred while he was alone in his camp, at the tripolite works near St. John, N. B., on the 18th of October, 1907. The building was an ordinary "camp" of boards, two and one-half stories high. Over the stove was a "flame" or drying chamber, constructed of boards, and having shelves in it, on which bricks and moulds of the "tripolite" were dried.

At this morning's session of the superior court the case of Thomas F. Morse of Littleton against George F. Stiles of Lowell was called. This is an action of conversion. The plaintiff claims that Deputy Sheriff Stiles attached two horses as the property of Wheeler, Milliken & Co. in Boston, when the property belonged to the plaintiff.

Lawyers D. J. Donahue and Albert S. Howard appeared for the plaintiff and Oscar E. Peas for the defense.

MARYLAND SAFE

State is in the Democratic Column Again

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 5.—According to unofficial returns received by the Baltimore News up to 1 p. m. today, Maryland is again in the Bryan column by a very small plurality. The most careful revision of the unofficial figures was made today with the aid of reports from every county and the wards of Baltimore city and the result is to show that up to this hour Bryan leads by 210 votes. The returns last night apparently gave the state to Taft by a plurality of 130.

The vote is so close, however, that it is possible the complexion may again be changed by the discovery of an ordinarily slight inaccuracy of a ward or district.

BRYAN LEADS

COUNT IN MISSOURI NOT YET COMPLETE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 5.—Returns compiled early this morning from every county in the state give Bryan a lead over Taft in Missouri of 470 votes. From 18 of the 114 counties, however, complete reports have not been received and for these counties the statisticians made careful estimates. Complete returns from the missing precincts may change the result one way or another and it is probable that the official count alone can determine whether Missouri has given its 18 electoral votes to Bryan or Taft.

The same tables which give Bryan a lead of 67 votes give Handley, for governor, a lead of 15,148, making his election over W. S. Coward an absolute certainty. This is the first time in nearly 35 years that Missouri has elected a republican governor.

DEMOCRATS ELECT GOVERNOR

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Complete returns in the Indiana legislature show that the democrats will have a majority of eight on the joint ballot. This will ensure the election of a United States senator to succeed James Hemenway. Taft carries the state by about 10,000 and Thomas R. Marshall, democratic candidate for governor, is elected by about 15,000.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 5.—The Register has received returns from all counties of the state and gives detailed tabulations today showing the completeness of the republican victory in West Virginia. The pluralities shown are as follows:

Taft, 20,353; Glasscock, republican, for governor, 7682.

The election of all five republican candidates for congress is claimed.

UNOFFICIAL RETURNS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Unofficial returns to the Post-Dispatch from 114 of the 115 counties in Missouri, 36 of the counties being complete give: Bryan, 289,935; Taft, 290,177. Taft's plurality, 470. For governor Handley, republican, 301,757; Coward, democrat, 285,604. Handley's plurality 15,153. Only the official count can decide the political

COMPLEXION OF THE STATE'S ELECTORAL VOTE

CLAIMS CAMERON'S ELECTION

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 5.—Secretary Young of the republican state central committee stands by his statement that Cameron, republican, for delegate to congress has defeated Smith, democrat, by 500 votes. Cameron's seeming plurality, based on party lines, is in excess of 1000.

THE DEMOCRATS

DENVER, Nov. 5.—Returns from 132 of the 146 precincts in Denver give Bryan a plurality of 2,648; Shafroth, democrat, for governor, 5755. Outside counties are still incomplete but this is sufficient to base the statement that both democratic national and state tickets have been victorious and also that the next legislature will be democratic by a majority of 16. This ensures the election of C. J. Hughes of Denver as successor to United States Senator Henry Teller, which selection will be made by the next general assembly. It is also sure that all three democratic members of congress have been elected.

OFFICIAL COUNT NOT COMPLETE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—The official canvass of Maryland's vote will be begun in each county of the state and in Baltimore city today. While the result may be known in many of the counties by tonight in others and in Baltimore city it may require several days to complete the count. Nothing of a definite character has been received early this morning to change the latest report last night giving Taft the state, on the face of the unofficial returns, by 135 votes.

AD ELECTION TAFT CARRIED OHIO

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—Taft carried his home state by. At the same time the democrats elected Judge Harmon governor with 20,000 plurality. On these two points fairly complete figures have been received. The remainder of the state ticket being probably republican the democrats are ready to concede the fact. The democrats concede a republican legislature by which a republican senator will be elected to the place now filled by Senator Foraker.

WISCONSIN VOTE

Kellogg Resumes Charge of Hearing Against it

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Frank B. Kellogg, counsel for the government in its suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey today resumed charge of the hearing. Louis Blauvelt of Baltimore, a special agent of the Standard, was on the witness stand again today and asked to be allowed to correct some of his previous testimony in which he said that he took fifty per cent. of the trade from the Standard Oil in Norfolk where he went for the company and used the name of the Eureka Oil Co. "to wake up" the resident agent. In his corrected testimony he said he had increased the sales by one-half more than when the opposition business was started. Questioned as to whether the Eureka was an independent concern, the witness said that everybody in the trade knew that he was a Standard man but for business reasons it would not do to make the fact public.

total vote of this state will not be known for several days. Aside from the two leading parties the social democrats showed the greatest strength.

IN OKLAHOMA
GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 5.—The socialist vote in Oklahoma will aggregate 20,000, double that of last year. No figures are obtainable on the independent party vote which appears to have been very small.

CANNON IN NEW YORK
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Joseph Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives, arrived in this city today accompanied by Congressman McKinley of Illinois, who is chairman of the republican congressional committee. The speaker and Mr. McKinley went into a conference with Secretary Lousenslager over the congressional returns and a statement will probably be issued later in the day.

The rooms recently occupied by the democratic national and state committees are being vacated today.

WARNER RE-ELECTED

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—With a few country districts to hear from and part of the Detroit vote not yet counted, it is practically certain today that Gov. Warner has been re-elected for a third term by about 8000 or 9000 plurality over his democratic opponent, Lawton Hemans.

SHAFROTH ELECTED

DENVER, Nov. 5.—On unofficial returns for the entire state which are not likely to be materially changed, Bryan's plurality in Colorado is 5577, and for governor, Shafroth, democrat, leads McDonald, republican by 3382. Three democrats are elected to congress.

The democrats control both houses of legislature. Charles J. Hughes, Jr., will be elected U. S. Senator Heyburn's successor.

THE MINOR PARTIES

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Returns from the minor parties show the following results:

New Hampshire—Debs, socialist, 879; Chafin, prohibitionist, 812; Hilegen, independence league, 479.

Rhode Island—Debs, socialist, 1295; Chafin, prohibitionist, 993; Hilegen, independence league, 514.

THE SOCIALIST VOTE

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The socialist vote showed a great falling off from the record in 1904 in the three principal cities of the country in which socialism is strongest. Chicago socialists who polled 45,000 votes in 1904 were given less than 19,000 votes in the returns. Cincinnati and Cleveland, also listed as strong socialist centers, according to the leaders of the party polled a greatly reduced vote.

The total vote for Mr. Debs, it is estimated, will not exceed 500,000 in doors. There were 300 invited guests, and the poor of the parish were there also for none was barred.

CHURCH WEDDING

The fact that the ceremony was performed by Archbishop O'Connell gave it an unusual distinction and it was one of the most impressive church weddings ever witnessed in this city. Men of all denominations, business and professional, were there, and when the first part of the chimes had died away and the bride party moved toward the altar there were those who did not hesitate to stand in their seats in order to get a better view.

The bride party and invited guests came by the Fenwick street entrance to which point a canopy had been spread from the church door and it was to the Fenwick street entrance that the carriages and automobiles went.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and was preceded by the bridesmaid and ushers. At the altar they were met by the groom and his attendant and her father gave the bride away. Clergymen entered the sanctuary and the very impressive ceremony was then performed by Archbishop O'Connell, assisted by Rev. Michael Ronan of St. Peter's church, and Rev. John J. Shaw of St. Michael's. During the ceremony the bride and groom knelt on cushions with cushions of white, at the altar. The only decorations consisted of a modest display of palms and the soft glow of the altar candles added to the impressiveness of the scene. Between the elevation and the Agnes Dei the incense-burners were lighted and the church was flooded with light.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Timothy Callahan and in the sanctuary were seated Rev. John J. Shaw, of St. Michael's; Rev. Fr. Campano, O. M. I., of St. Jean Baptiste; Rev. Michael Ronan, of St. Peter's parish; Rev. Fr. Rosa, of St. Anthony's church; Rev. Fr. Lefebvre, O. M. I., of St. Jean Baptiste; Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., of St. Patrick's church; Rev. James P. O'Connell and Rev. Dennis J. Sullivan, O. M. I.

Rev. Joseph Curtin of St. Patrick's church was master of ceremonies, and the servers at the mass were James J. Clinton, John J. Queenan, Martin F. McCarthy and Thomas Dean. Thomas Dean and John O'Brien of the sanctuary choir, received cards at the door from invited guests.

The music for the nuptial mass and ceremony included the "Marche Nuptiale," McMaster, "Bridal Song," Adolf Jensen, "Bridal Song," John H. Rogers, "Canticle Nuptiale," Theodore Dubois, Lohengrin's bridal march and Mendelssohn's wedding march. There was one solo, "Ave Maria," by Master James Roarke of the sanctuary choir.

The bride wore a sweeping bridal veil of white silk, a gown of white satin, empire effect, and trimmed with Irish lace. On her bosom she wore a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom, and she carried a beautiful white prayer book and rosary beads, the gift of Archbishop William H. O'Connell. She carried lilies of the valley and they, too, formed the wreath with which the veil was caught.

The bridesmaid, Miss Josephine Boynton, of this city, wore a beautiful dress of pale blue chiffon cloth embroidered with silver and at her throat was a turquoise brooch, the gift of the bride. She wore a picture hat and carried chrysanthemums.

The best man was Adolph Falkenberg, Italian consul, New York city. The ushers at the church and at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Williams in Livingston avenue, where the reception following the ceremony was held, were: Dr. Harold Bunkett, Arthur Spalding, Hutchinson Parker, Dr. D. A. O'Leary, Erickson Greenhalge, and Paul Duckworth. The groom's favor to the ushers was a bronze bust of the Roman emperors and the gift to the best man was a diamond stick pin.

Archbishop O'Connell and Rev. Michael Ronan attended the reception at the house and Monsignor Bursell of Kingston, N. Y., was present at the nuptial mass and later at the reception. The out-of-town guests included Miss Julian Robinson of Boston, Dr. and Mrs. Young of Newburyport, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh of Philadelphia, and Dr. and Mrs. Harrington of Boston. The house was prettily decorated with greenery and autumnal foliage and the

Van Dyke Found Guilty of Conspiracy to Defraud

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Edwin Van Dyke, former ink expert of the bureau of engraving and printing, who with Victor G. Bloede, president of the Victor G. Bloede Co. of Baltimore, was indicted January 6 last charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with certain ink contracts with the bureau, today withdrew a plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to two counts of the indictment. Justice Gould fined Van Dyke $10,000 which was double the amount imposed on Bloede recently for his share in the affair because Van Dyke was a government employee. Van Dyke paid the fine and the two remaining counts of the indictment were then dismissed.

spacious parlors were filled with admiring guests. Hibbard's orchestra was unseated in a cozy corner of palms and added to the splendor of the occasion. The D. L. Page Co. catered. The happy couple left Lowell on the 1.16 train and will go direct to New York. On Nov. 14 they will sail for Italy and will take up their residence in Rome. Upon leaving the bride's home in Livingston avenue the bride party was showered with confetti and as the guests passed out of the house they were given boxes of wedding cake. The bride upon leaving for the train was attended in a very becoming and very artistic traveling gown. Mr. and Mrs. de Palma were the recipients of many beautiful and costly wedding gifts.

Archbishop O'Connell came to Lowell from Boston in his new automobile, the one presented him upon the occasion of the centenary of the archdiocese of Boston, and, besides a chauffeur and footman, was accompanied by his nephew, Rev. James P. O'Connell.

DE SAGAN IS ASKED TO PAY COMMISSION

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Judgment in the sum of $1300 was obtained in this city yesterday against Prince Helle de Sagan on certain protested notes given by the prince to a dealer in antiques, through whose agency he purchased in 1909 a number of souvenirs of General Marceau, paying therefor $8000. They include the general's seal, the plumes he wore in battle and his ashes contained in a hollow cannon ball. The dealer was to have been paid $1,900 as a commission and Prince Helle gave him a note, afterwards dishonored, for that amount.

The prince in his reply to the suit claimed that the relics, even including the ashes, were not worth $8000 and that, therefore, the agent's commission was absurd.

IS ACCUSED OF BEING A PORCH CLIMBER

PITTSBURG, Nov. 5.—Mary Howell, 18 years old, was sent to the home of the Good Shepherd today by Police Magistrate Brady as a self-confessed porch-climber. The young woman was arrested in a box at the Bijou theatre last night.

For some time a portion of the city's residence district has been worried greatly by robberies, each evidently perpetrated by some one who came through the second story windows. Tales came to the police of a young woman who climbed porch pillars with ease, and finally Miss Howell was suspected.

The girl is charged specifically with looting the homes of John Davies and W. R. Barrett.

ARREST WOMAN

BECAUSE SHE HAD ADJUSTED HER HAT

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Two sisters, Freda and Edna Thomas, the former a lawyer and the latter a school teacher, and both living at 14 Stanton street, Manhattan, were held in $500 bail on a charge of assault in the Bedford avenue police court yesterday.

They were arrested Tuesday night by Policeman Wm. J. Hayes, in an election crush at Broadway and Flushing avenue. When policemen attempted to clear the streets Freda's hat was disturbed. While she was trying to readjust it, Hayes believed she intended to stab him with a hairpin and arrested her.

When her sister interfered she was also taken into custody. There was such a demonstration against Hayes that several other policemen went to his aid.

The city health department issued a statement outlining plans for caring for the indigent and unemployed expected to flock to the city with the coming of winter.

"While Chicago will take care of its own destitute unemployed," says the announcement, "warning is hereby given that those coming from other cities will be met with open arms and a welcome by the Bridwell (jail) only."

FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—Pensions for retired missionaries were provided for in the closing session of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church which today adjourned. This is the first time a woman's missionary board has taken such action in this country. Mrs. Cyrus Foss, wife of Bishop Foss who has been president of the society many years, retired and was elected president emerita. She was succeeded by Mrs. McDowell of Illinois, wife of Bishop McDowell.

The appropriation for school teachers' pay has been exhausted, and they will have to await the action of the city council, at their meeting next Tuesday evening.

Of Frequent Mention In the Daily Journals

DON AUGUSTO B. LEGUIA, recently elected to the chief magistracy of Peru, has always been an open admirer of the United States and has advocated the adoption by his country of North American business methods. In his early life he was a clerk in the Spanish-American department of a New York life insurance company. He resigned this position to accept the management of an English sugar company doing business in Peru and in a few years became one of the richest men in South America. Leguia has been in political life only five years, but in that time he has held several high offices, being prime minister at the time of his election to the presidency. President Leguia is now in his forty-sixth year.

PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT, whose engagement to the young king of Portugal has not been denied either in England or in Portugal, but has not been announced officially, is one of the most attractive royal maidens in Europe. She has been wooed by several royal lovers, but is reputed to be difficult to please. It is no secret that she might have been queen of Spain had she wished. She and her sister Margaret, now crown princess of Sweden, are the best looking young women in the British royal family and are prime favorites of their uncle, King Edward. The king is reputed to have declared that the Princess Patricia should not be made a party to any marriage disastrous to her highness.

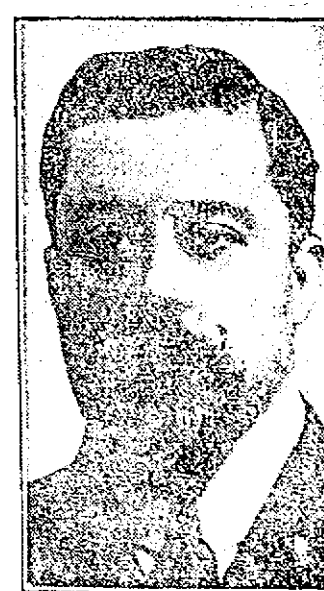

SENATOR WINTHROP MURRAY CRANE of Massachusetts, who was called in to assist in the Republican presidential campaign in the west, has acquired a reputation of being a skillful harmonizer of political differences. His unusual ability in this direction was shown in the last McKinley campaign, and he was also active in electing Mr. Roosevelt, who regards him as one of the ablest political organizers in the country. Before his election to the United States senate Mr. Crane served two years as governor of Massachusetts. During his campaigns he did not make a speech or write a political document of any kind. He is a wealthy paper manufacturer of Dalton, Mass., and a good looking widower.

VICTORIEN SARDOU, doyen of French playwrights, who is now at the close of a long and very successful career as a dramatic writer, was born in Paris, Sept. 6, 1831. In his early life he was a medical student, but he made little progress and had a profound distaste for the profession. He wrote a play in blank verse when he was eighteen and took his manuscript to Rachel, who let him read it to her and then told him laughingly that it was the "worst ever." His first play was a flat failure, but later he achieved an immense success. The number of his plays is legion, and with those of his later life Sarah Bernhardt is identified closely. Sardou is very rich and a member of the French academy.

MRS. J. ELLEN FOSTER has been one of the most picturesque figures in the presidential campaign and is certainly unique among Republican spellbinders. She offered her services to the national committee early in the campaign and has been doing excellent work. Mrs. Foster has won fame as a lawyer, a reformer and an orator. She was among the first women in the country to adopt the law as a profession, and for many years she has been prominent in most of the noteworthy reform movements which have interested women's societies and clubs. Her part of the work has been to manage the political end of it. Mrs. Foster is a native of Lowell, Mass., but she now lives in Washington.

MR. GIULIO GATTI-CASAZZA, the new manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York city, is a native of Ferrara, Italy, and was educated for a naval engineer. At the age of twenty-five he ferried out calling and went into theatrical management. He has been conducting the business affairs of La Scala at Milan for ten years and during that time has made a good reputation as a manager. In the management of the great New York opera enterprise Mr. Gatti-Casazza is associated with Andreas Dippel, who is probably the most versatile singer in the world, being able to sing practically any male role at half an hour's notice. Loyal Italian that he is, Gatti-Casazza is an admirer of Wagner.

KIAMIL PASHA, grand vizier of the sultan of Turkey, is recognized by all the European powers as the most progressive and enlightened statesman in Turkey. He is a gentle mannered, kindly faced old man nearly ninety years of age who has held the office of grand vizier at three different times during his long and chequered political career. Kiamil has always been too progressive to suit ultra conservative Turkey, and his freedom of initiative has sometimes led him into difficulty, even danger. Once he was sent into exile and was not permitted to return for fifteen years. More than once he has been obliged to seek shelter in a foreign legation. Kiamil speaks five languages fluently, including English.

PRESIDENT ELIOT

President Eliot who resigned as head of Harvard university, was born in Boston March 20, 1834, the son of Samuel Atkins Eliot and Mary (Lyman) Eliot. In 1849 he was graduated from the Boston Latin school as a Franklin medal scholar, and in 1852 was graduated at Harvard university, where he accepted a position as tutor. In 1855, the year of his marriage to Ellen Derby Peabody, daughter of the Rev. Ephraim Peabody of Boston, he was made assistant professor in mathematics and chemistry at Harvard. In 1861 he was placed in charge of the chemistry department of the Lawrence scientific school for a three-year term.

At the end of his term he went abroad and studied chemistry in France, Germany and England, besides making a study of educational methods in those countries. He remained abroad for two years, and on his return was offered $5000 a year to become agent of the Merrimack Manufacturing company's mills at Lowell, but declined because he had determined to devote his life to education, and accepted the professorship of analytical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at a much smaller salary.

PRESIDENT ELIOT

His election to the presidency of Harvard in succession to Dr. Thomas Hill, resigned, followed soon after, despite opposition in the board of overseers, which once sent his name back as directors of the Merrimack mills, had previously sought his services in that connection.

POUREN CASE

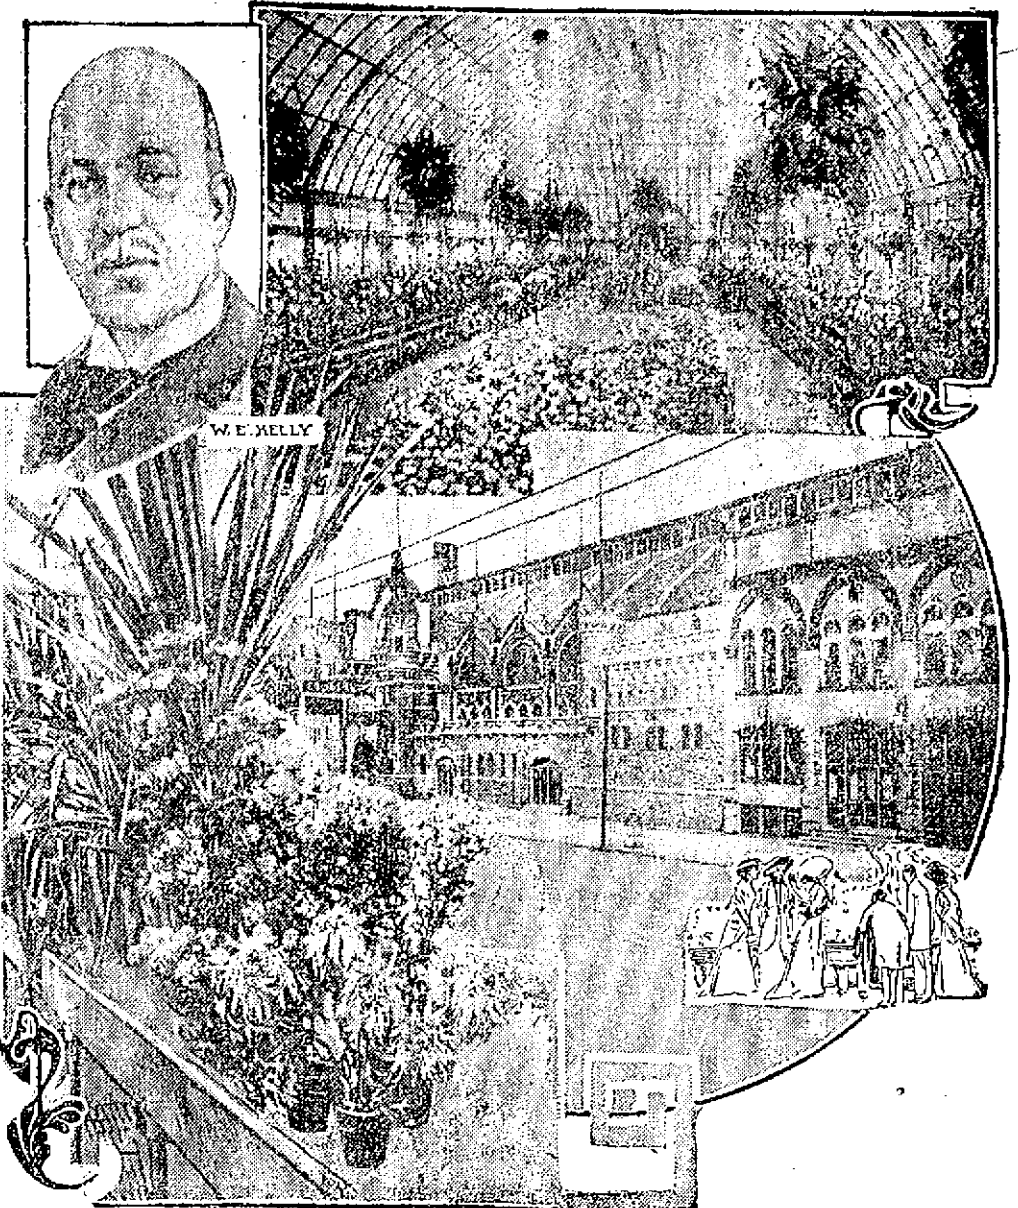

ROXBURY MAN DESCRIBES HORRORS IN RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Dramatically relating all the horror of living like wild men in the woods while being hunted to be shot down by Russian government officials, Andrew Lashin and Mrs. Katrina Sheple of 3 Pruitts street, Roxbury, Mass., were the star witnesses for Jan Joffe Pouron, Russian revolutionist and refugee, at a hearing before United States Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday.

Testimony was brought out to show that the offenses with which Pouron is charged are more political than criminal.

Mrs. Sheple, known as the "Russian Joan of Arc" because of the prominent part she played in the Russian revolutionary movement, was still testifying in behalf of Pouron when court adjourned until tomorrow.

SCENE AT NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The first national flower show ever held begins in the Chicago Coliseum on Nov. 5 and will continue a week. The event not only interests great numbers of people in America, but in Europe as well. Exhibits have been sent not only from all parts of the United States, but also from England and France. An especially large number of chrysanthemums, varieties, all new, have been sent from France. Several of H. McK. Twombly's Breedingnagian chrysanthemums, the largest ever grown anywhere on the globe, will be exhibited. Mr. Twombly has a wonderful collection of flowers at his place in Madison, N. J. The triumphs of his horticulture are the chrysanthemums. Some of the plants are twenty feet in diameter and contain 500 blooms. Credit for the creation of sufficient interest to warrant a national flower show belongs largely to representative Chicagoans, among them W. E. Kelley, president of the Chicago Horticultural society; John J. Mitchell, R. T. Crane, F. D. Countess, Charles L. Hutchinson, H. H. Porter, R. N. Isham, C. G. Boytan, W. J. Chalmers, James Hobart Moore, Martin A. Emerson, Mrs. George M. Pullman, Victor F. Lawson, A. S. Trude and many others. Of those mentioned most of them have estates in such places as Lake Geneva, Lake Forest and Oconomowoc, where they grow rare flowers.

AN OFFICIAL CANVASS

May be Needed to Decide Who Carried Missouri

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Maryland and Missouri held the center of political attention when the republican and democratic politicians to say nothing of more voters began today to look over the net results of the election. Leaders of both parties found themselves facing what looked increasingly like a vindication of the prophecy of the chairman of the national republican committee that Taft would have at least 325 electoral votes when the final "show-down" was reached.

At the opening of the day's despatches these things appeared to be fairly well settled.

Leaving Maryland and Missouri out of the count Taft was assured of 301 electoral votes, Bryan of 156.

Missouri with her big block of 15 votes was hanging in the balance, the last despatch early today showing up complete returns that Bryan had a lead of 57 votes. Complete returns might swing the result one way or the other any moment. The general belief was that the official canvass would have to be waited for to settle the question whether Missouri's 15 would be for Taft or Bryan.

Maryland with eight electoral votes was claimed for Taft with a margin of only 15 votes and few districts yet to be heard from.

The democrats insisted that they would not yield their state to the republicans save upon the authority of the official count.

At the beginning of the day this is the way the electoral table looked:

FOR TAFT
California	10
Connecticut	7
Delaware	3
Illinois	12
Indiana	15
Iowa	10
Kansas	10
Maine	10
Massachusetts	10
Michigan	14
Minnesota	11
Montana	3
New Hampshire	3
New Jersey	12
New York	32
North Dakota	4
Ohio	23
Oregon	3
Pennsylvania	31
Rhode Island	4
South Dakota	4
Utah	4
Vermont	3
Washington	5
West Virginia	5
Wisconsin	13
Wyoming	3
Total	251

FOR BRYAN
Alabama	11
Arkansas	9
Colorado	6
Florida	9
Georgia	12
Kentucky	12
Louisiana	9
Mississippi	10
Nebraska	8
Nevada	3
North Carolina	12
Oklahoma	7
South Carolina	12
Tennessee	12
Texas	13
Virginia	12
Total	156

Necessary to elect 242

While the tendency of despatches was to throw the doubtful states toward the Taft column the reports of the results within states was in the opposite direction seemingly showing a general disposition to vote for republican presidential electors but for democratic state officers and legislators. An exception to this was Missouri where late figures seemed to favor Bryan but to make practically certain the election of a republican governor for the first time in thirty-five years.

The plurality of Bradley, the republican candidate, appeared as 15,145 on the same table that gave Bryan a lead of 67.

Indiana apparently has given the democrats a majority of eight on joint ballot in the legislature which would assure the state a democratic United States senator in place of Hemenway.

man Joseph P. O'Connell was returned by a very small margin.

Three of the five states, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, voted for governor on Tuesday and in all three republican candidates were elected by the following pluralities:

New Hampshire—Henry B. Quinn over Clarence Carr by 1000.

Massachusetts—Eben S. Draper over James H. Valley by 60,000.

Rhode Island—Artem J. Pothier over Olney Arnold by 7000.

Maine and Vermont elected republican governors at state elections held in September.

All the states have elected legislators strongly republican but New Hampshire is the only state in which a United States senator is to be chosen and there Jacob Gallinger whose term expires next March will probably be returned.

West Virginia is assured to Taft. First despatches today indicated a plurality of 20,000 or better but Glasscock, republican, for governor, will apparently have less than half of that.

While the republican majority in the national house has been cut there seems no reason to doubt that Cannon will again be elected speaker and will have a republican majority more than sufficient to continue his substantial control of the house.

Taft's plurality in New York state has gone well over the 200,000 mark while Hughes has shrunk from the 75,000 accredited to him yesterday to 70,000 or less. Attention began to turn today to votes of the minor parties, socialist, prohibition and independence parties. It appeared early today that the socialists had been disappointed in their widely avowed expectations of casting "a million for Debs" and in some states had even fallen below their vote of four years ago. In general, however, their vote showing a material increase, justifying the claim of the advocates and the fear of the opponents of socialism that it has become a serious factor in American politics. As for the prohibition vote its totals present a great disappointment to those who expected that "the prohibition wave" which has swept a number of states in the last few years would carry the vote of four years ago. Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1908.

This is by far the largest net average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

A WORD TO THE COURIER-CITIZEN.

Under the caption of "antiquated journalism" our esteemed contemporary, the Courier-Citizen, undertakes to read The Sun a lesson on the treatment of candidates for office, and in its excited condition, due, no doubt, to the effects of undue hilarity over the republican victory, our neighbor also undertakes to instruct us in the art of running a newspaper.

Our great offense seems to have been that we supported democratic candidates in the recent election, and incidentally showed up a portion of Congressman Ames' record wherein on an important vote upon the Pure Food bill he is recorded in the Congressional Record as "present and not voting." That was "dodging" an important issue, and we called it by its right name. The particular vote to which we referred will be found in the record of the first session of the fifty-ninth congress on page 9076, volume 40, part 10. The publication of this official record our neighbor termed "the dirtiness of the campaign of which The Sun should be heartily ashamed."

We beg leave to assure our neighbor that there is nothing dirty about the simple statement of a fact which is a matter of public record, and we are not ashamed of our action in exposing a public dodger. If the editor of the Courier-Citizen believes that Butler Ames in dodging this vote on the Pure Food bill did something for which the people of this district should rise up and reward him he is welcome to enjoy the hallucination, but he must not be surprised if sane people take a different view of the case. The fact is that Mr. Ames was among the members who dodged the final vote on the Pure Food bill, and when the Courier-Citizen says he worked for the bill it is deceiving the people. We invite the Courier-Citizen to look up the record in the public reading room at City hall and ascertain to what an extent Mr. Ames has bluffed the public including our esteemed and learned neighbor across the way who knows so much about running campaigns and about progressive journalism. We believe Mr. Ames did not do his duty on that occasion, and we said so; but apart from this, we supported Hon. Joseph J. Flynn because he is a democrat, favoring democratic policies, and because, as our esteemed contemporary well knows, he is immeasurably better fitted in every way to represent this or any other district than is Mr. Ames.

This was amply proved by the record of both men in the legislature. Flynn left a record of popular measures enacted into law. Ames' record was a complete blank. Yet this point of comparison does not at all appeal to our esteemed neighbor in Mr. Flynn's favor.

It is plain, therefore, that it is not ability or efficiency that fits a man for public office in the opinion of our non-partisan contemporary. What is it then, may we ask?

So far as we can judge from this particular case, it must be the possession of wealth and a social standing among what our much esteemed contemporary recently termed the "better element." Indeed it is but a short time since our neighbor remarked that our city government should be in charge of this "better element." Here then we get a clear idea of the system of reasoning which our neighbor uses in determining what is and what is not pure and unadulterated non-partisanship. What it terms non-partisanship appears to be merely a leaning towards the so called "better element," the men possessed of wealth who move in high social circles. It would, therefore, seem that because he was a mere bill poster and theatrical manager, Hon. Joseph J. Flynn was abused, misrepresented and maligned by our neighbor during the recent campaign. It surely was not because he was a democrat, for our non-partisan neighbor never considers party labels, don't you know. And for this reason also we presume the same paper connived at the attempt of Mr. Ames and his democratic hirelings to steal the democratic nomination by the most shameless methods.

If any candidate outside of the "better element" should attempt to steal a nomination from a convention of delegates of society leaders we can well imagine the indignation of our non-partisan contemporary.

Perhaps it was for a similar reason also, that Joe Hibbard was pierced with the Courier-Citizen stiletto, which act, by the way, brought him wide sympathy and many votes. If Messrs. Flynn and Hibbard were men of wealth and experts in leading the german at social functions, regardless of any intellectual deficiency, they might never have felt the sting of the non-partisan stiletto. Mr. Flynn is so far above Butler Ames in ability and intellect that any comparison of the two men would be ridiculous. This is well known to our neighbor and to all who know the candidates for congress.

As for Mr. Hibbard, while he is not the equal of Mr. O'Donnell, he is unquestionably far ahead of Butler Ames in ability and intellect, and he is more of a man than our heartless neighbor would have people believe. By an unfortunate accident he lost his leg, but with a spirit that might well be emulated by some of the "better element" he took up the study of music in order that he might earn an honest living. The musical profession, we assert, is one that should not bring upon him the attack of any public journal under the guise of non-partisanship. He has given orchestral music for some of the best social events held in this state, and to brand him as a "mere fiddler whose chief business is to run Saturday night dances," was meaner, dirtier, more cowardly and more to be ashamed of than anything that appeared in local print during this or any other campaign. If that is a sample of "non-partisanship" The Sun wants none of it. If that is the new school of journalism which our neighbor would introduce, The Sun would prefer to go on in the good old way.

Our contemporary is either troubled with a very large bump of conceit or else it is having some strange psychological experiences of late. A short time ago it advised the obliteration of all sectional or denominational lines in church matters without offering any substitute, and now it practically advocates wiping out of political party lines for what it is pleased to style non-partisanship; but it forgets that under the law, we must have party designations and party candidates at the polls in all elections.

The non-partisanship of our neighbor, we fear, is not genuine. It looks too much like a screen for cheap snobbery and class distinction; nor will we believe otherwise, until we see that paper come out squarely in support of a democratic candidate for mayor, something it has never yet done despite all its protestations of non-partisanship, although it had a good opportunity to prove its sincerity when Col. Carmichael ran against the present nonentity at City hall for the office of mayor.

We believe in democratic principles, and under the present political system these principles can be advanced only by support of the democratic party. That is the party which The Sun supports, and it is never ashamed to acknowledge it. We admit that party issues which appear in a state or national campaign have no place in a municipal contest, and we shall not object to any change in the law or in our city charter that will provide for a better system in local contests; but the contest just ended was a national and not a municipal campaign. The law still recognizes political parties in municipal as well as state and national elections, and the voters must take their candidates with the party label or not at all. The Sun supports democratic candidates in municipal politics as well as in state and national, because they invariably appeal to us as the best candidates, offering the prospect of the best government for the whole people and not for any particular "element." The term democracy means something if properly interpreted, and so long as there is a party that represents the masses of the people to a greater extent than any other, The Sun will stand by that party and advocate its principles and the election of its candidates.

When The Sun gets down so low as to support men for office because of their wealth or social standing or becomes mean enough to abuse decent candidates because of their humble means of earning a livelihood, it will not try to cover its perfidy with a veneer of non-partisanship, nor will it presume to lecture any of its contemporaries on how to run a newspaper simply because they differ with us in politics.

SEEN AND HEARD

With the advancing years, says the Boston Transcript, comes the passing of old customs, and in Waltham the early morning mill bell has outlived its usefulness and its ringing is discontinued after generations of use.

For nearly a century the bell on the cotton mill of the Boston Manufacturing company has been rung at 5 o'clock in the morning. In the early part of the century, even before General Banks became a bobbin boy, the 5 o'clock bell called the residents of the town from rest to labor. It was to give the housekeepers warning that the bell was rung at 5 o'clock, a warning that they would have just time to get breakfast and allow the employees to get to work at 6:30 o'clock. A second bell was rung at 5:45 o'clock as a warning to the employees to arise and prepare for the day's work. But as the town grew, the methods changed. The boarding house features fell into disuse, those who were employed in the mill moved to a remote distance and the corporation houses passed into other hands. But the bell system remained unchanged. Its brazen tones fell on ears for which it was not intended. The reason given by the management for discontinuing the bell is that it is not necessary; that the system calling for the early ringing has passed away, and because mills in other cities have adopted the idea of less bell ringing.

These satirical, graceful, and poignant lines were written by one of the most brilliant men of a brilliant age—Edward de Vere, who was the seventeenth Earl of Oxford. As a votary of fashion, he was a striking figure at the court of Queen Elizabeth, a contemporary of Shakespeare and Spenser and Raleigh. Though he loved to appear to be little more than a man of fashion, he was, nevertheless, a man of vigorous action. In 1588, he headed one of the English squadrons which sailed out to meet and scatter the great Spanish Armada. He was also deep in the politics of his time. As Lord High Chamberlain, he presided over the court which condemned to Elizabeth's passionate lover, the Earl of Essex. More important still, he converted the court which tried Elizabeth's rival, Mary, Queen of Scots. Lord Oxford wrote but little, and of what he wrote only the poem quoted here deserves remembrance. But its neatness and point have given it a place in all important collections of English lyric poetry. It has the felicity of phrasing which characterizes the poetry of that period.

BY EDWARD DE VERE (1541-1604)

"If women could be fair and yet not fond,
Or that their love were firm, not fickle still,

I would not marvel that they make men bound.

By service long to purchase their good will:
But when I see how frail these creatures are,
I muse that men forget themselves so far.

To mark the choice they make and how they change,
How oft from Phoebus they do flee to Pan;

Unsettled still, like haggards wild they range;
These gentle birds that fly from man to man:

Who would not scorn and shake them from the first,
And let them fly, fair fools! which way they list?

Ye for sport we fawn and flatter both,
To pass the time when nothing else can please;

And train them to our lure with subtle ease;
Till weary of our wiles ourselves we cease:

And then we say, when we their fancy try,
To play with fools O what a fool was I!

Attention has recently been directed to the number of trees in Glasgow which are in a dying state, their sickly condition being attributed to smoke.

A correspondent mentions a singular coincidence in regard to five trees which a John Pattison planted in the centre of his garden in Kelvingrove on the birth of his five sons. Two of his sons died early in the nineteenth century, but were only three of the trees standing. On the night that his son Matthew died one of the trees fell, and on the night of Frederick and John's death (some years between) one of the trees fell, certainly, as the writer remarks, a singular coincidence.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Shipwrecked" at the matinee and "On Thine Evening Day" at the evening performance were the plays presented by the Bennett-Moulton company at the Opera House yesterday before good sized and enthusiastic audiences. There is no doubt that if all the visiting repertoire companies were of the same excellent quality as that of the Bennett-Moulton company they would all be assured of excellent attendance here. The company today gave excellent renditions of their respective roles and each play was well staged. This afternoon the play will be "The Governor's Wife" and tonight "Under Sealed Orders" will be the bill.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Manager Martin of Al. W. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has hit upon an innovation that bids fair to revolutionize the current productions of the well known, but ever popular drama. In his employment of white actors and actresses exclusively he has attempted something that has been scorned by other managers as an attempt at the impossible. But white people have proven their ability in every part of theatricals to depict the colored man and woman with realism that excels the depiction of the colored men themselves. This fact is recognized by that race, members of which have been unstinting in their praise for Mr. Martin for giving them a view of their old-time life without any feature of the overdrawn farce or caricature.

GRACE GEORGE

Mrs. William A. Brady, who is known on the stage as Miss Grace George and who comes here soon, dances, sings and rides for a novel reason. She does it, she claims, that she may be better fitted for thinking and reading. "The brain," she declares, "is simply a portion of the body, and moreover it derives its sustenance from what nurtures the body. The two grow and are developed together; one cannot be healthy without the other."

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's new bill at the Theatre Voyons will be headed by "The Football War," an interesting and dramatic story of college life. The principal character is an Indian, who has from his magnificent playing on the football team, aroused the jealousy of some of his classmates. Another fact which tends to provoke the hatred of one in particular is that one of the belles of the college town seemingly prefers the company of the football warrior to that of a rich but dissipated student. During the course of the story the Indian is badly hurt at the instigation of his white rival, and is taken from the field. Later in the game, however, his team needs him and despite the order of the doctors he returns to the field and takes part in the closing plays of the game. His rival, who has caused his injuries by bribing an opponent to stab him, makes several further attempts to discredit the redskin, but the story ends with the football warrior successful, not only in sport, but in love, for he wins the hand of the girl he loves.

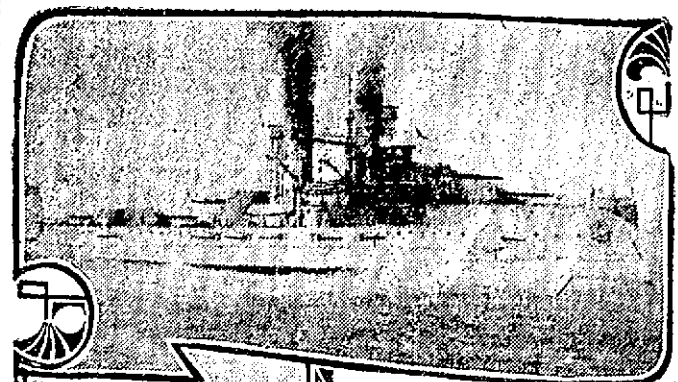

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

It is barely possible that you don't care for ventriloquism, some people don't, but just get a glimpse of the really wonderful work of Ed. P. Reynard, at Hathaway's theatre this week, and it's a safe wager that you will sit up and take notice. His act is without question the best thing of its kind ever attempted on the ventriloquie stage. The little sketch is called "A Morning in Bingleville."

Then there are Brown, Harris & Brown, with their catchy bunch of nonpareils called "Just to Laugh-That's All." The older man of the two Browns is irresistibly funny. Viola Duval, pretty, petite and with a good voice, has a brace of songs which go well. The Florenz family of acrobats have a corking act, the Minnettes, models of rage; Kenough & Francis, in a sketch; Johnny Johns, a clever black face comedian, and the Fitzes, who do the most convincing impersonations of the forestalled acts.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Deshon-Pitt stock company is satisfying large audiences at the Academy of Music this week, with its excellent presentation of the thrilling and moving drama, "Eagle's Nest," which is being produced under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Pitt, the artistic stage director of the company. Mr. Pitt, in staging "Eagle's Nest," has clothed the attraction with especially rich scenic dress and has given his attention to every little detail relative to the proper presentation of his great offering. The members of the company are well cast and each one contributes to the success of the production. Mr. Victor Browne is seen to best advantage in "Eagle's Nest," for his situation bordering on tragedy are particularly well suited to his style of acting. Tomorrow afternoon a recitation will be held on the stage after the matinee performance, while tomorrow evening the merry amateurs will hold forth at the conclusion of the regular performance. Seats for the remaining performances may be ordered at the box office in advance by telephone.

NEW AMERICAN

Dreadnought Turned Out at Quincy, Mass.

QUINCY, Nov. 5.—The battleship North Dakota, known as the new American Dreadnought, will be launched at Quincy, Mass., on Nov. 10. Secretary of the Navy Michael will attend the ceremonies, and Miss Mary L. Burton of Fargo, N. D., will act as sponsor. Naval experts believe the North Dakota will prove the fastest battleship afloat. When in commission she will be accompanied by Captain Charles J. Badger, superintendent of the Naval academy.

HOTEL BURNED

FIRE STARTED FROM AN OVERHEATED FURNACE

BROOKFIELD, Nov. 5.—Fire, which started in the Metropole hotel shortly after midnight this morning, destroyed the hotel, causing a damage of $30,000. Other buildings in the neighborhood were threatened, but they were saved after a hard fight by the local department, reinforced by a steamer from East Brookfield and a hook and ladder from North Brookfield.

All the guests, about 10 in number, escaped. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Mulcahey, wife of the proprietor, who woke her husband when she smelled smoke. He went to investigate and found a volume of smoke pouring out of the cellar windows.

Mr. Mulcahey tried to go into the cellar to find the fire, but was driven back by the flames. After sounding two alarms he rushed from room to room, alarming the guests and all were able to get out safely, although many of them lost their clothes and many of their personal belongings.

Very little was saved from the building which was valued at $30,000. It was a three-story wooden structure which was moved to its present site about a year ago. It had a large patronage as a summer hotel, being regarded as the best in Brookfield, and kept open throughout the year. The fire started from an overheated furnace.

STAR THEATRE

"The Frontiersman's Bride" is a thrilling picture story of the life of a pioneer settler in the time of the savage Indians. The settler has taken his bride into the heart of the wilderness, where for a time they live happily and unmolested, but finally a day comes when the Indians' hatred is aroused. They attack the white intruder, carry off his wife and leave him bound hand and foot in his burning house. He manages to loosen his bonds before the fire reaches him and barely escapes. With a party of his fellowmen whom he has summoned he pursues the Indians and after much shooting and killing on both sides finally rescues his bride. This picture begins today.

Tomorrow, "The Boy Detective" and "Willie's Fall From Grace" will be the new films talking pictures. The latter is a lively comedy and no doubt will be an immense success.

The songs, "Smile on Me" and "No One Knows," are pretty little ballads beautifully illustrated.

The management reports that business is steadily increasing, and that their day is undoubtedly due to the popularity of the talking pictures. They can only be seen at the Star.

JUDGE SHUTE READ

Judge Henry A. Shute, author of the "Real Diary of a Real Boy," gave reading from his own stories at the Eliot Congregational church last night and he pleased admirably. The entertainment was held under the auspices of the Sabrey club of the church. There were about 250 present and the affair was a big success financially and otherwise.

DIED SUDDENLY

JUST AS PAPERS IN LOVE SUIT WERE FILED

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—That the defendant in a $10,000 suit for alienation of affections was killed by a fall from a roof on the very day on which the papers in the case were filed became known yesterday, when attorneys for Charles H. Call of Somerville stated that they were unaware of the sudden death of S. Peter Larsen, a wealthy Somerville contractor.

Last June Call left his wife and took his young son to 17 Appleton street, Somerville. Last Monday he charged Larsen with alienating his wife's affections in a suit filed in the Middlesex superior court asking for $10,000 damages. That same morning Larsen fell from a roof in Winchester and died that night in the Massachusetts general hospital.

Call's lawyers, ignorant of the accident, filed the papers between the time of Larsen's fall and his death. When they were informed of the death of the defendant yesterday they said that the suit would have to be dropped, but they thought another suit might be filed.

The charge in the suit alleges that Larsen alienated Mrs. Call's affections from August, 1907, to June, 1908.

ENGLISH GIRL

TWICE DEPORTED FOR BELIEF IN POLYGAMY

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Delphine Daddsworth, the pretty 21-year-old English girl of blonde complexion who, because she said she believed in plural marriages, was deported last September, after attempting to land in Boston, has just suffered a second deportation, this time from Salt Lake City, Utah.

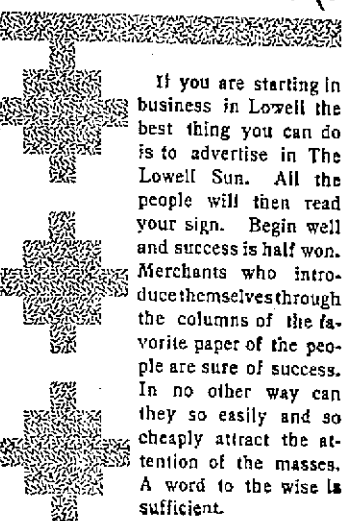

She succeeded in getting into Utah from Canada, but the immigration officers heard of her last attempt to get into the United States and acted promptly.

At the early part of September the girl was held up by the immigration officers of this port because she declared that she believed in the Mormon doctrine of polygamy. She said she had become converted in England. At the time Senator Reed Smoot of Utah came on from Washington and interested himself in the case. The girl, however, was sent back to England.

It appears that after this the young Mormon tried to enter the country by way of Canada, and she was reunited with her family at Salt Lake City some weeks ago.

She was finally taken to Montreal by train in the custody of an immigration official.

LATEST RETURNS

Show That Taft Will Have
309 Electoral Votes

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Practically complete returns received up to a late hour last night indicated that William H. Taft of Ohio, as president-elect, will have a vote of 209 in the electoral college. This is within sixteen votes of the forecast made by National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock and 67 more than a majority out of the total electoral vote of 437.

The most important news of the late returns indicates that Maryland, after vacillating during the day and apparently being safe for democracy, has been swung into the Taft column. The unofficial figures give Mr. Taft the state by 136 votes.

Maryland was the last of the doubtful states to be heard from. Indiana and West Virginia, as well as Montana, turned out to be safely republican. Colorado went for Bryan.

Mr. Bryan has a total of 174 votes, two less than he received in 1896. In 1904 Mr. Parker received only 140 votes, in 1896 Mr. Bryan received 155 votes, and in 1892 the Nebraska received 176 votes.

Mr. Taft's 309 electoral votes compare with 236 received by Roosevelt in 1904, 202 received by McKinley in 1900 and 211 by McKinley in 1896.

No changes of material interest have been reported in the congressional returns today. The republicans will have about the same working majority in the sixty-first congress as at present, and Joseph C. Cannon, of Illinois, undoubtedly, will succeed himself as speaker. Representatives Jesse Overstreet of Ohio and Hepburn of Iowa, are the most conspicuous among those who have failed of re-election.

The senate retains its present complexion, although there will be a material change in the personnel of the upper branch of the national legislature.

The states carried by Mr. Bryan are as follows:

Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 9; Colorado, 5; Florida, 5; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 12; Louisiana, 9; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 18; Nevada, 3; Nebraska, 3; North Carolina, 12; Oklahoma, 7; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 18; Virginia, 12. Total 174.

All the rest of the states are safe for Taft with the exception of Maryland, where the issue is so close that an official count may be necessary to finally determine the result.

National Chairman Norman E. Mack of the democratic party, issued a statement last night in which he declared that he did not believe Mr. Bryan would again be a candidate for the presidency. He said he believed that the Nebraska might be a candidate for the United States senate in 1911, provided the legislature of his state is democratic in that year, when the first vacancy occurred.

The latest returns indicate that in the national house of representatives, the republicans have 208 members and the democrats 172, with eleven districts missing.

Judge Taft's plurality in the state of New York, according to corrected returns late last night is 203,495, more than 28,000 in excess of President Roosevelt's plurality of four years ago. Governor Charles E. Hughes was re-elected in New York state by 71,169. The returns as between president and governor indicate a heavy splitting of tickets. The proportion of scratched ballots was about the same in the top-state districts and in greater New York.

Last night's returns were watched with a great deal of interest, not in the belief that they could have any possible effect upon the national result, but because of local conditions. The heavy vote in Ohio made figures extraordinarily late, owing to the immense size of the ballot. Mr. Taft carried his own state, however, by 10,000 plurality, a reduction of more than 25,000 from the Roosevelt vote of

TAFT IS HAPPY

He Will Take Two Weeks' Rest

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—Early yesterday morning Wm. H. Taft gave hearty expression to the gratification he felt on his election as president of the United States. Business, labor and agriculture, he declared, had supported him. His success, he said, should be also the success of the country, if his ability and endeavor could make it so.

"Please say that I am perfectly healthy but tired," was the message Judge Taft wished uttered for him last night. With Mrs. Taft he enjoyed the hospitality of the C. P. Taft family yesterday, going forth only once, and then to receive the plaudits of thousands of his fellow townsmen as they lined the streets and filled the windows for blocks in the line of march of the parade of the Woodward High school pupils, faculty and trustees. Mr. Taft made the principal address at the corner stone laying of the new building of this school, from which he graduated when a boy. The function gave the city an opportunity to pay its first daylight tribute to the president-elect and full advantage was taken of it. Judge Taft did not refer to the election or politics in his brief address but confined himself to the history of the school, which held for him many fond memories.

A speech to the Women's Foreign Mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church in annual session here today and a banquet of the Cincinnati Commercial club tonight, constitute the public functions which will occupy Judge Taft before he leaves for Hot Springs, Va., Friday.

"I am going away for a complete rest for at least two weeks," said Judge Taft last night. "Now, I am not going to hold political conferences, neither am I going to consider cabinet construction, nor political appointments during this time. It is to be a period of as near absolute rest and quiet as I can make it."

Three thousand or more telegrams of congratulation were delivered to Judge Taft yesterday. They included messages from cabinet officers, senators, representatives, ambassadors, politicians, residents of the Philippine Islands and the Far East, and personal friends and admirers. Many telegrams came from business organizations and labor societies throughout the country.

Members of the Boston chamber of commerce telegraphed to Mr. Taft that his administration would redound to his own honor and to the lasting advantage of the American people. The president, D. J. Rothwell, invited Mr. Taft to attend a dinner of the chamber of commerce in the near future.

One of the interesting telegrams that came from the Philippines was from the Jesuits. The telegram that pleased Mr. Taft most, however, were those from his children. His daughter Helen wired from Bryn Mawr, where she is a first year student: "Heartiest congratulations. I never was so happy in my life."

From his son Robert, at Yale, came an equally enthusiastic telegram and Charles, the youngest son, expressed his good feeling through a telegram sent by his uncle, Horace Taft, from Watertown, Mass. Charles is at Watertown school. Dispatches also were received representing the good sentiment of Henry W. Taft and family from New York.

Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island congratulated Mr. Taft on his great victory, to which he said Rhode Island republicans are proud to have contributed their full share.

USE OF WATER

LAWS RELATING TO THIS QUESTION IN SINGLE VOLUME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The National Conservation commission is compiling for publication in a single volume all the laws and court decisions, both state and federal, which relate to the use of water in the United States. This manual will be of immense practical value and it is somewhat remarkable, considering the wide number of interests which are touched by these laws, that no such compilation has been made before. With the constantly growing demand for inter-state waterways, the increasing utilization of water power for the development of electricity, and the widening areas of semi-arid western plains that are being made arable through irrigation, these laws at the present time affect the interests of a wide variety of individuals and corporations, and in the immediate future the number whose business is directly touched will beyond doubt be greatly increased.

The work which the National Conservation commission is doing along this line is extremely thorough and the compilation will be complete. It will include all state and national statutes and all court decisions which concern water rights and kindred questions on both navigable and non-navigable streams and lakes. The citations will include all acts which relate to riparian rights, and public usufruct of water, and all statutes which concern mills, pollution of water, interference with navigation or the use of streams for power, damming of streams, diverting streamflow, and so on—in short, all acts which affect the use of waters and their private appropriation to power or other purposes. In the book will be included also some authoritative discussion of the principles involved in these laws.

The National Conservation commission in its endeavor to make the compilation absolutely complete and accurate has called upon the governors of all the states for assistance and the replies in every instance have promised support. Considerably more than half the states have already appointed State Conservation commissions for the specific purpose of co-operating with the national commission in its work of gathering the material which will be embodied in the report to the president the first of the year. In the other states the state officials whose work most nearly touches this project are at work.

A single volume containing all the laws which bear upon the use of waters in the various parts of the country, will be an exceedingly useful reference handbook. It will be possible of an ever increasing usefulness in that it will exhibit within limits that make ready comparison possible, not only the general tendencies of the laws and decisions in this subject, but the discrepancies that exist between the regulations of different states.

The fear is frequently expressed that the tendency towards monopolization of water power, which has already made very great progress in some

FATALLY INJURED

Woman Thrown Over 16-Foot Embankment

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Seven persons in a big automobile en route from New York to Albany were hurled over a sixteen foot embankment near Oeymans, Albany county, Tuesday night. All were injured and Mrs. Mabel Oakford, one of the party, died later at the Albany hospital in this city. Owing to an accident to the steering gear the chauffeur was unable to make a sharp turn at the approach of a bridge over a creek. The machine was owned by Edward E. Albee of New York city, general manager of Keith and Proctor's vaudeville circuit. The occupants of the car were Mr. Albee and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell of New York; Mrs. Mabel Oakford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell; Mrs. Gerson and the chauffeur, Joseph Stafford of New York.

It was said at the hospital yesterday that Mrs. Albee and Mrs. Gerson suffered serious injuries and may not live. Mrs. Mitchell was also badly injured. The others are expected to recover.

BIG RAIL ORDER

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—That the United States Steel Corporation and all other makers of rails in the United States have agreed to cut the standard price of steel rails, and that the railroad systems of the country have agreed to order largely at the reduced price, is the story that came from steel and railroad circles here last evening. It is further rumored that the price of rails, which for quite a number of years has been $28 per ton, will be shaded to $24, and at this figure the various railroads have agreed to equip their lines most completely, something that has not been done for three years.

According to the Pittsburgh information this agreement was reached at a meeting held in New York last week. The final announcement will be made shortly. The Pennsylvania railroad has begun preparations for placing its big order for rails.

BIG WAGE INCREASE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—The American Nut and Bolt Fastener company yesterday afternoon announced that as a result of the election the wages of the firm's workmen would today be raised 20 per cent, and in addition, there would be as much extra time as the workmen cared to make. This concern employs several hundred men. President Milton Bartley said last night:

"For some time past presidents of different railroads have been assured of the election of Taft, and so placed orders with us to be hurried through as soon as the election should be safely over. We are now starting on this work and find it necessary to call back all the old men we had working before, and at the same time refer to them the wages which we paid them in times gone by."

LAWRENCE POLICE Are Still Looking For Woman's Assailant

LAWRENCE, Nov. 5.—Edward Lawrence is still held as a suspect in the case of Mrs. Margaret Smith, who was brutally assaulted in a passageway adjoining the house where she and her husband boarded. No charges have been preferred against him. City Marshal Sheehan said late yesterday afternoon. Neither are the police ready to release him.

The husband's story was that in approaching the door of the boarding house Mrs. Smith stumbled and fell, and as he stooped to assist her three men came up, one forcing him into a passageway on one side of the house and leaving the other two with Mrs. Smith. The police say they believe there was a quarrel between Smith and some unknown man in the shadow of the house. This seems to have been determined by the information of Charles Houle, whose attention was attracted by Smith's shouts to John Beaver, a tenant close by, and also by another neighbor. Houle has said that he shouted out the window to the assailant and told him if he did not let the "old man" alone he would come out and "kick his head off." When Houle reached the outside he saw a man, hurrying down Broadway in the direction of the Arlington mills, while Smith had disappeared.

The authorities reason that while Smith and the man were quarreling in the passageway some other person, who was familiar with the locality, saw Mrs. Smith lying on the ground and that he was the one who assaulted her. Medical Examiner Dow was in consultation with the police at headquarters yesterday and Patrolman Gordon of the Methuen force was also there. Two women were in the building for a short time and Lawrence was brought before one of them, evidently for the purpose of identification. Just how the woman figured in the case the police did not say.

Lawrence, police say, has been around Methuen for a dozen years or so. He is 29 years old. He is a carpenter.

PRES. GOMPERS TO BE RE-ELECTED, SAY BOSTON MEN

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The delegates from this vicinity who will represent central labor unions and international organizations at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convention in Denver, Col., left Boston yesterday. The session will open Monday morning and continue for about two weeks.

It was the general impression among the delegates that Samuel Gompers, who for more than a score of years has been the official head of the American Federation of Labor, will be again re-elected, though there is a strong probability that opposition to his reelection will be organized.

The delegates refrained from speaking on the political situation of the federation as relates to the election of Tuesday.

LOGICAL ECZEMA CURE ENDORSED BY PHYSICIANS

After treating eczema for years as a practically incurable blood disease, the medical world is greatly interested in the discovery that it is not a blood disease at all, but is due to a parasite in the skin itself. This parasite is easily destroyed by the external application of a compound of oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., which will quickly kill all eczema, while soothing and refreshing the skin.

R. A. Folkers of Duluth, Minn., tells of the success with D. D. D. Prescription in treating patients.

"There is a man here suffering from eczema for the last fourteen years, and I applied the D. D. D. treatment. I also applied it to a man of West Duluth, Minn., who has been suffering from the same for fourteen years, and excoriated in his last, and the second treatment in both cases cleared the skin almost absolutely. I hope that everyone in the world will be able to learn of your cure and remedy. The first application is only a bath, and its soothing effect is beyond expression. I shall never be without it, and shall use it among my patients altogether."

No matter how terribly you suffer from eczema, with D. D. D. Prescription, etc., you will feel instantly soothed and the itch abated at once when a few drops of this oil of wintergreen compound is applied. The cure is all that to be permanent.

The sympathy of the court was extended to Bro. Malachy Burns, who was dangerously ill at his home, and Bro. Connolly and G. McGilly were appointed a committee to wait on the family and express the sympathy of the body. Three new members were initiated. The auditor's report shows the court in excellent condition.

TARIFF REVISION BRYAN IS PLEASED SENATOR FORAKER WAS FINED $200

To be Taken up By the New Administration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Now that Mr. Taft has been elected the two things that most interest Washington are his cabinet and the revision of the tariff, to which Mr. Taft stands pledged. So far as the cabinet is concerned there will be many changes. Mr. Root can remain at the head of the state department if he cares to, although it is generally believed here that he will leave the state department to go into the senate as the successor of Mr. Platt next January.

In that case it is the general expectation that he will be succeeded by Mr. Meyer, who has not only taken an active part in the campaign, but whom Mr. Taft personally likes and greatly admires. Mr. Meyer's linguistic abilities and his diplomatic knowledge admirably fit him for the state department and his appointment would be pleasing to the various foreign governments represented here through their ambassadors and ministers, with all of whom Mr. Meyer is on friendly terms.

In the event that Mr. Root should not leave the state department, Mr. Meyer will become secretary of the treasury, as Mr. Cortelyou will retire after March 4. Mr. Meyer's place will in all probability be filled by Mr. Hitchcock, the chairman of the national republican committee, whose mastery of management of the campaign so significantly justified the wisdom of his appointment. Mr. Hitchcock had to submit a good deal of adverse criticism in the early days of the campaign, but the result shows that he made no mistakes and knew perfectly what he was doing.

Knows About the Postoffices
Mr. Hitchcock's appointment as postmaster general would be a natural one, as he was first assistant postmaster general at the time when he left the government service to take charge of Mr. Taft's campaign, and has a thorough knowledge of that department.

Secretary of War Wright, who succeeded Mr. Taft after the latter's nomination, will, it is expected, remain through the next administration; but Mr. Metcalf, the head of the civil branch of the service, will retire with the present administration. So will Attorney General Bonaparte, and his successor is likely to be either E. A. Kossog of Minnesota, now the governor's chief trust buster, or Wade Ellis of Ohio, who took such an active part in framing the republican platform.

Secretary of the Interior Garfield, an Ohio man, will remain in the interior department, which may bring two more from Ohio in the cabinet, but the old-time prohibition against a state having more than one member of the cabinet would not be felt slightly if the president picked two men from his own state.

In the present cabinet New York contributed three members—Root, Corleyou and Strauss. Sec. Wilson has an ambition to add to his phenomenal record as a member of the cabinet by remaining during the next administration, but it is not certain that his ambition will be gratified. Sec. Strauss may remain at the head of the department of commerce and labor, but that also is not certain at this time. With Mr. Meyer and Mr. Hitchcock in the cabinet both Massachusetts men, any other New England cabinet appointment would be precluded.

The Tariff
That the tariff will be revised, but not violently reformed, is the general opinion. With such devoted standstillers controlling the destinies of the house as Speaker Cannon, Representative Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mr. Dalzell, his chief lieutenant, the tariff need have no fears that it will not be in the hands of its friends, so far as the house of representatives is concerned. Mr. Cannon will undoubtedly be re-elected speaker. Had the republican majority in the house been close, a successful revolt against him could have been led, but the old guard is in control, and the old guard wants its snug committee chairmanships, which it would not be sure of getting if a new and younger man came to the front.

With Mr. Cannon back in the chair there would be little change in committee assignments, and it will fall to Mr. Payne to bring in the new tariff bill. In the senate Mr. Aldrich will, of course, remain at the head of the finance committee, and will put the finishing touches on the bill after it leaves the house.

Minimum and Maximum Schedules
There will not be, it is safe to say, any violent reduction of duties, but it is practically certain that the new tariff will conform to the European method and have minimum and maximum schedules, the minimum rates to be given to all countries that give to this country their lowest rates and the maximum to be enforced when reprisals are necessary. Senator Aldrich thoroughly believes in the system and so do a great many other prominent republicans in both houses of congress.

The minimum is not expected to be much lower than the present rates of duty; that is, taking them all the way through, although there will be readjustments and modifications that will bring about considerable changes. The maximum will be a good deal higher, so that it will be a useful club when tariff wars threaten.

The expectation in Washington is that congress ought to meet in extra session almost immediately after the close of the regular session and that as congress will have nothing else to do except to pass on the new tariff bill, it ought to be able to finish its work in three months.

DAVIS IN COURT

Held to Await Coroner's Report.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 4.—Fred Davis of Chelsea was arraigned yesterday morning in the municipal court before Judge Maher, charged with the murder of George Dunham. After a few preliminary proceedings the hearing was postponed until 9 o'clock Monday morning, to await the report of the coroner's jury. The jury will meet in the Chelsea town-house at 2.30 tomorrow afternoon.

Lillian Chamberlain, the woman who claims to be Davis' wife, was held in $1000 as a witness, but was unable to secure bail. Davis contends that he is no married to the Chamberlain woman to his knowledge, and that if he ever was married to her, it was when he was under the influence of liquor.

Reports have reached the officers that Dunham was fast winning the affections of the Chamberlain woman, and that she was casting Davis aside for him. That there also was bad blood between Dunham and Davis for other reasons, the officers claim to have evidence. It is alleged that Davis once accused Dunham of stealing his liquor that was hidden in the woods.

CAPTAIN WAS LOST

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 4.—The schooner Lorna Doone, owned by Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador missionary, arrived at No. Sydney yesterday morning, her captain, who was washed overboard Sunday afternoon during a gale of snow storms. The vessel was bound from Boston with a cargo of supplies for Dr. Grenfell's mission at St. Anthony. Captain Robert was 60 years old and a native of Twillingate, N. F.

TIMBER SUPPLY

Of the United States, Its Amount and Quality

"We are now cutting timber from the forests of the United States at the rate of 500 feet board measure a year for every man, woman, and child. In Europe they use only 60 board feet."

These statements could be made with good reason, for the average man that this country leads the world in the demand for timber. It is made by Trembly & Co., Inc., in a circular which treats of the conservation of the forest, soil, water and all the other great natural resources, which has just been published by the United States Forest Service. In speaking further of the conservation of timber in this country, Mr. Cleveland says:

"At this rate, in less than thirty years all our remaining virgin timber will be cut. Meanwhile the forests which have been cut over are generally in a bad way for want of care; they will produce only inferior second growth. We are clearly over the verge of a timber famine."

This is not due to necessity, for the forests are one of the renewable resources. Rightly used, they go on producing crop after crop indefinitely. The countries of Europe know this, and Japan knows it; and their forests

BODY OF WOMAN

Missing Three Years is Identified

TILTON, N. H., Nov. 4.—The body of the woman found in the woods near Northfield Center Tuesday night by Edward Hare, who was on a hunting trip, was identified yesterday by Mrs. Homer M. Clay of North Doreen as her mother, Mrs. Frances S. De Lottville, formerly of Franklin.

Mrs. De Lottville was living with her daughter, Mrs. Clay, in Franklin when she left home three years ago last July. She said that she was going to look for work and would write when she had secured a position. No word has since been heard from her. Inquiry was made at the time by her daughter, but her whereabouts had been a mystery until yesterday.

Mrs. Clay, upon learning that an unknown woman had been found, visited the local undertaking establishment and positively identified the body as that of her mother. The identification was made complete by the peculiar texture of her dress and her shoes.

There were no suspicious circumstances connected with the case, the medical examiner, Dr. G. P. Conn of Concord, giving death due to exposure and exhaustion.

It is thought that Mrs. De Lottville had been living for found for the more than three years that she has been missing. Her body was beside a road, but was not far from her house. Before leaving home she had shown signs of being despondent. Her husband, formerly a barber in Franklin and Tilton, is now in Salem, N. Y. She leaves besides her daughter, whose husband is a station agent at North Doreen, three brothers. Funeral arrangements will not be made until her husband arrives here.

SOME MILL NEWS

BUSINESS IS BRIGHTENING UP IN SPOTS

The new mill of Mayo & Son, Inc., Foxcroft, Me., is nearing completion. The plant as a whole is undergoing improvements and new machinery has been received and set up. A new day house is planned to further increase the efficiency of the mill.

William E. Silk Dyeing Co., Waterville, N. J., is to erect an immense dyeing plant at East Fifth street, Waterville. Though but one story high, it will cover an area 29 by 150 feet, not including the machine shop and boiler house also to be erected in connection with the establishment. The cost is estimated at $100,000.

A new weaving mill, 124 by 60 feet, two stories, is to be built by S. Slater & Sons, Webster, Mass.

State Mill Co., Waterville, N. J., has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000 to take over the real estate and personal property of the Slater Cotton Co., and operate the plant for the manufacture of cotton, woolen, worsted and silk fabrics and yarns. The incorporators are Frank A. Bayles, Stephen A. Jenks, Edward S. Bowen, George E. Martin, James R. MacCall and Wm. H. Harris.

It is reported that the Lewiston Mills Corporation, Waterville, Me., has purchased a large farm in the vicinity of the mills and will have erected thereon several tenant houses for the accommodation of employees.

At this rate, in less than thirty years all our remaining virgin timber will be cut. Meanwhile the forests which have been cut over are generally in a bad way for want of care; they will produce only inferior second growth. We are clearly over the verge of a timber famine."

This is not due to necessity, for the forests are one of the renewable resources. Rightly used, they go on producing crop after crop indefinitely. The countries of Europe know this, and Japan knows it; and their forests are becoming with time not less, but more, productive. We probably still possess sufficient forest land to grow wood enough at home to supply our own needs. If we are not blind, or wilfully wasteful, we may yet preserve our independence and, with it, the fourth of our great industries.

"Present wastes in lumber production are enormous. Take the case of yellow pine, which now heads the list in the volume of annual cut. In 1907 it is estimated that only one-half of all the yellow pine cut during the season was used, and that the other half, amounting to 8,000,000 cords, was wasted. Such waste is typical. It is, A. Long, in his address on 'Forest Conservation' at the conference of governors last spring, pointed out that 20 per cent of the yellow pine was simply left in the woods—a waste which represents the timber growing on 300,000 acres."

"The rest of the waste takes place at the mill. Of course, it would not do to speak of the material rejected at the mill as waste unless this material could be turned to use by some better and more thorough form of utilization. But in many cases we know, and in many other cases we have excellent reason to believe, that most, if not all, of this material could be used to profit. It is simply a question of intelligent investigation and, more than all, of having the will to economize."

"But there are other ways to conserve the forests besides cutting in half the present waste of forest products. The forests can be made to produce three or four times as rapidly as they do at present. This is true of both the virgin forests and the cut-over lands. Virgin forests are often fully stocked with first-class timber, but this stock has been laid in very slowly on account of the wasteful competition which is carried on constantly between the rival trees. Then, too, in the virgin forests there are very many trees which have reached maturity and stopped growing, and these occupy space which, if held by younger trees, would be laying in a new stock constantly. As regards the cut-over land, severe cutting, followed by fire, has checked growth so seriously that in most cases reproduction is both poor and slow, while in many other cases there is no true forest reproduction at all at present, and there is but little hope for the future."

MELROSE MAN

WAS KILLED BY HIS OWN GUN YESTERDAY

MELROSE, Nov. 5.—Edward Hyatt, age 32, of Echo street, Malden, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun he was carrying yesterday.

Hyatt, with his brother Walter and John Babcock, started out early yesterday on a bird hunting expedition, each armed with a shotgun. After hunting in the woods at Mt. Hood, near the Saguenay line, they started home. They had reached a point near Waverley avenue when Edward Hyatt failed to light his pipe, feeling the muzzle of the gun against his body. He then companions walked ahead a few yards when they heard a report and saw Edward Hyatt drop to the ground.

Medical Examiner Perley said Hyatt met his death by accident, a spark from the pipe or match dropping into the barrel of the gun and exploding the charge.

CHINESE ENVOY COMING
TOKYO, Nov. 5.—Tang Shao Yi, special Chinese envoy to the United States, from China, sailed for San Francisco on the steamer Mongolia today, accompanied by a large suite. In a public speech here he said that the world had been mistaken in thinking that China was even slightly unfriendly to the United States.

EASY TO CURE RHEUMATISM
But you must have a little persistency in your make-up to do it. There are hundreds of so called rheumatism cures, but not one that we know of has stood the test of time like NEURALGIC ANODYNE.

If you have rheumatism, neuralgia, pains or aches of any kind, internally or externally, get a bottle of NEURALGIC ANODYNE to-day, and follow the directions for use.

NEURALGIC ANODYNE is a household necessity. It kills pain almost instantly, and it used promptly when pains occur, will prevent pneumonia.

For sore muscles or lame back due to over-exertion, there is nothing half so good. Sold everywhere. Made by The Twitchell-Chapman Co., Portland, Me.

May Not be Returned to the United States Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—For a presidential election that was such a sweep, there are numerous republican toga wearers and members of the lower, or popular, branch of congress who have been left outside of the breast-works. The belated returns may show a brother saved here and there, but at best the fighting ground is strewn with the maimed and wounded. Irreverent Washington prefers to know them as "lame ducks," many of whom will come hobbling along for federal appointments at $5000 or more, when the hurrahing at the next inauguration is over.

It looks now as though several distinguished republican senators were headed for private life, unless the new president chooses to "take care" of them. First and foremost among them will undoubtedly be Senator Joseph Benson Foraker of Ohio. Of course, his re-election has been regarded as impossible, ever since the Standard Oil letters were given to the public.

Whether the Ohio legislature be republican or democratic on joint ballot, a new Buckeye senator is assured. If the democrats have that legislature they will elect ex-Gov. "Jim" Campbell, who once defeated Mr. Foraker for governor of Ohio, and who has been dividing his time between New York and Ohio ever since he left the governor's chair.

It is a long time since there has been a democratic senator from the Middle West. Ohio had the late "Cal" Bruce and Indiana had Turpie and Voorhees, but they were displaced 10 years ago and more, as that big belt of states began going republican.

Foraker's Successor
If the Ohio legislature be republican there will be a half dozen aspirants for Senator Foraker's toga. Representative Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland entered the senatorial race weeks ago. He wanted to come to the senate to succeed the late Mark Hanna and Senator Foraker tried to help him to an election. There have been rumors that Charles P. Taft, the half-brother of the president-elect, would like to enter the senate and he might become a formidable candidate. Ex-Speaker, Ex-Major-General and Representative J. Warren Keifer of Ohio also wants to come to the senate, but he is probably too old to win the race should there be republicans enough in the legislature to elect a senator of that political faith.

Probably Senator Foraker will not want any office. He has a large and lucrative law practice in Cincinnati, but there is some conjecture as to whether Mr. Taft, when he becomes president, might not generously offer him some important diplomatic post abroad. For the incoming president received his first office as judge by appointment from Foraker when the latter was Governor, and has always felt a keen appreciation of it.

Abendorth told Judge Sisk that the late William Stone, for many years superintendent of Pine Grove, had given him permission to take away the frames after the flowers had wilted. While the cemetery workmen usually throw away the frames after the flowers have lost their life, it is said, that of late, designs which were of some value, for the flowers had not thoroughly wilted, have been stolen, and the discovery of the great quantity of frames in Abendorth's cellar explains where many of them went.

Of course florists buy second hand frames and Abendorth has made it a business to dispose of some of his frames to florists.

PAY OF TEACHERS

Held Up for Lack of Funds

Unless a special meeting of the common council is called to concur with the board of aldermen in voting a loan of $50,000 for the school committee, Lowell's school teachers will have to go shy on their pay for a few days. The teachers' pay roll has been held up in the auditor's office because of no funds. The next regular meeting of the common council is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Man Stole Flowers From Grave

For stealing floral tributes from two graves in Pine Grove cemetery, John Abendorth, a shoe cutter, residing at 16 Floya avenue, was fined $200 by Judge James H. Sisk, says the Lynn Item. An appeal to the superior criminal court was taken. In the arrest of Abendorth, the police believe that the theft of hundreds of floral tributes from graves in Pine Grove cemetery has been explained, for a search of his home revealed, according to the police, "a freight car load" of wire frames which are used by florists in building designs.

Reserve officer Phillips has been watching Pine Grove cemetery for several days as a result of complaints to the police by Superintendent Lane of the cemetery, and about 7 o'clock yesterday Phillips nabbed Abendorth after he had removed a floral piece from a grave.

Then the officers searched the residence of the man. In the cellar they found stacked up in a corner many wire frames for the design known as "gates ajar." In other parts of the cellar, in separate lots, were other common designs, sign frames, while a great quantity of ribbon was also found.

Abendorth admitted that he had been taking the frames, but claimed that the flowers had all wilted when he removed the frames from the graves. His plan was to pick up a frame as he went through the cemetery and hide it in the woods.

In explanation of his action, Abendorth told Judge Sisk that the late William Stone, for many years superintendent of Pine Grove, had given him permission to take away the frames after the flowers had wilted. While the cemetery workmen usually throw away the frames after the flowers have lost their life, it is said, that of late, designs which were of some value, for the flowers had not thoroughly wilted, have been stolen, and the discovery of the great quantity of frames in Abendorth's cellar explains where many of them went.

Of course florists buy second hand frames and Abendorth has made it a business to dispose of some of his frames to florists.

TWO MEN SHOT

As Result of Feud on the Bowery

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Two men were shot, one probably fatally, on the Bowery in consequence of a recently revived feud between two rival gangs. One of the victims, Jacob Silver, was shot through the abdomen and will probably die. The other, Thomas Harrington, will recover.

STALE BREAD

IS WHAT CREW OF STEAMER LIVED ON

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Compelled to subsist on stale bread as their only food for 10 days, the crew of the five masted schooner Governor Ames breathed a sigh of relief when they dropped anchor in the harbor yesterday after a most tempestuous passage of 35 days from Newport News.

But for the work of the two powerful steam pumps which kept the holds clear of water, which was pouring in through great seams in the side of the vessel, it is feared the big collier would have gone to the bottom during one of the terrific gales she encountered. The vessel, in command of Captain King, had a cargo of 2500 tons of coal. Captain King reported that he was 35 days completing the trip, which is ordinarily accomplished in at least a week. The Governor Ames was forced to anchor in Hampton Roads for two weeks on account of heavy weather.

Superintendent Moffat is in receipt of a letter from a Philadelphia attorney asking the Lowell official for the address of one Eldridge Homan or his heirs who lived in Lowell at one time. We want to say here, in a few words, that there is nothing in the way of footwear that is needed in the family, but what you will find here and with our system of manufacturing we are in a position to furnish you shoes for any of the family at prices that other dealers cannot match. GERMANY'S DEMAND

Is Only a Simple Expression of Regret From France

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—The viewpoint of Germany in the Casablanca difficulty was explained officially by the foreign office today with the express desire that it be called to the United States in order to clear up any existing doubts.

"All we demand," said an official of the foreign office, "is a simple expression of regret from France for the violence employed against the German consular officers at Casablanca, an expression such as would be demanded by any nation whose officials had been subjected to attack. Unless this is forthcoming there would be no object in conducting further negotiations. We cannot permit this point to be submitted to arbitration for we regard it as a point of national honor that such regret should be expressed."

"We do not desire that the French officials concerned be reprimanded, that French soldiers be punished or the adoption of any measures of discipline whatever."

Concerning the other points of the difference, we are prepared to arbitrate. We acknowledge that some things might have occurred on the German side which could have been avoided while France also must admit from her side that unnecessary acts were committed.

Both the French ambassador, M. Cambon and the French government have been aware of our demands for a long time. There has been no recent change in the situation and no further pressure has been brought to bear which might cause this question to become more acute."

TAINTED MONEY

Churches Criticized for Accepting It

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—Clergymen generally are stirred by the recent remarks of Frank S. Monnett, former attorney general of Ohio, concerning the acceptance of money by the churches from the heads of the big trusts.

In a talk to a gathering of Methodist ministers in New York Mr. Monnett, who figured in the oil cases in Ohio and is a trustee of Wesleyan university, condemned the acceptance of gifts from trusts by various churches as an effort to purchase public favor for wrong doing.

An extraordinary session of the cabinet was held today and the decision not to accede to the German demands was unanimously ratified. At the same time it was agreed that France should show her conciliatory disposition by offering a mode of
